Liberal Is To Sit For Burrard In the Legislature

J. H. Forester, Given Plurality of 376 Over Telford, C.C.F., and 1,800 Over Patterson, Conservative, Pledges Efforts to Increase Employment

Endorsement, Says Pattullo

Burrard Vote Strengthens Government Position, Premier States

Only 45 Votes For Walker, Socialist

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 3.—Premier Pattullo today proceeded with preparations for a fall session of the British Columbia Legislature with the ranks of his Liberal followers restored to thirty-five.
J. Howard Forester retained the Vancouver-Burrard seat for the government yesterday with a plurality of 376 over Dr. Lyle Telford, C.C.F., and of 1,800 over Dr. Frank Patterson, Conservative.

The fourth candidate, Robert Walker, Socialist, polled only 45 votes. Mr. Forester's total was 7,405, Dr. Telford's 7,029 and Dr. Patterson's 5,605.

FOR CONSTITUTIONALISM
Dr. Patterson, eminent bone specialist, congratulating the victor, declared "the result is a victory for democratic and constitutional government and a clear verdict for the two constitutional parties in Canada." He referred to the combined vote of 13,010 polled by the Liberal and Conservative candidates as compared with the 7,029 for Dr. Telford.
Both parties in the campaign had condemned the policies of the C.C.F. as led by Dr. Telford, while the latter (Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

"Burrard in Hand Worth Two in Bush"

An up-country elector with a sense of humor gave Premier Pattullo and members of the government a laugh this morning.
Shortly after taking his seat in his office this morning, while going through his mail, the Premier opened a telegram. It was signed by the elector and read:
"A Burrard in the hand is worth two in the bush."

U.S. Golfers In Win Over British

Score Sweeping Victory in Singles Today to Retain Walker Cup; Scotty Campbell, Seattle, Defeats Jack McLean 5 and 4

Clementon, N.J., Sept. 3.—Routing their British foes with decisive victories, the United States today won the Walker Cup, emblematic of international team golf supremacy.

Victory in the fight they never have lost since the amateur series was started in 1922 was clinched by Charley Yates, Atlanta, Ga., who furnished the winning point with an 8 and 7 triumph over J. Morton Dykes.

Reynolds Smith, Dallas, supplied the largest margin of victory, crushing Al Hill, 11 and 9.
Behind him came Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati, who defeated Cecil Ewing, Ireland, 8 and 7, and Scotty Campbell, Seattle, who finished with a sub-par round to defeat Jack McLean, 5 and 4.

With the two victories scored in yesterday's Scotch foursomes, the United States had a total of six points out of a possible ten.

John Goodman, Omaha, scored the seventh point by routing the British amateur champion, Hector Thomson, 6 and 2.

Ed White, Texas's second Walker Cup star, delivered the eighth point with a 6 and 5 conquest of John Langley, eighteen-year-old English schoolboy star.

Walter Emery, Oklahoma City, turned back a fine challenge by Harry Bentley, veteran Englishman, to win 1 up and make it nine points to nothing for the home forces.

"The result in Burrard is very gratifying and Mr. Forester is entitled to every congratulation, Premier Pattullo said this morning.

"The government, and particularly myself personally, have been under very considerable attack ever since we took office, but I have always felt that the people of the province were alive to the fact that we were doing the very best possible under very difficult conditions.

"I would like to renew an expression of appreciation to the electors of Burrard in that I feel that their action will very materially strengthen the position of the government in the numerous problems which still must be solved."

Coming as it did on top of the government's success in Omineca, where Mark Connelly was elected to succeed Mr. Justice A. M. Mansou, politicians hailed the result as an indication of support of the government after its administration of the last three years.

Some also forecast the recent break between Rev. Robert Connell and the C.C.F. party as an elimination of the C.C.F. from the commonwealth in the next general election.

In retaining these two seats the government has maintained its original standing of thirty-five members in the House.

The basis for the government claims of general support is the fact that the two constituencies represented a cross section of the country. Omineca called for a test in the rural areas while Burrard tested the government's strength in one of the largest constituencies consisting of both working class and business men.

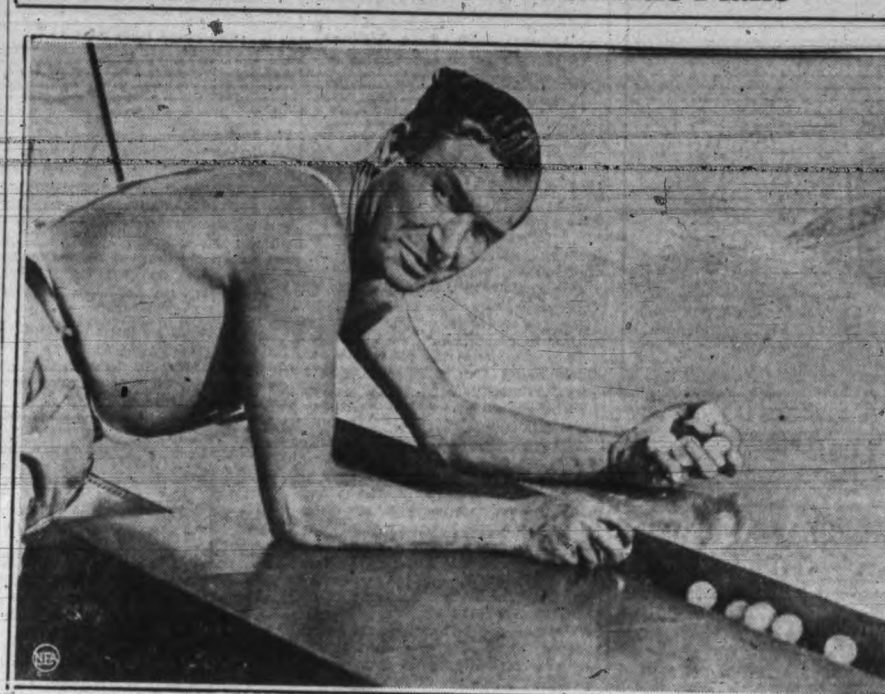

Supporters of Rev. Robert Connell saw the Liberal win as a vindication of their leader's break with the C.C.F. and it was indicated the victory would encourage them to greater organization in preparation for the provincial general election poll.

Quebec Premier Says $40,000 Saved By Abolishing London Agency

Canadian Press
Quebec, Sept. 3.—Premier Maurice Duplessis announced today his Union Nationale government had abolished the "London agency" established by the Taschereau administration and which was under the direction of Dr. L. J. Lemieux.

Abolition of this agency would result in a saving of more than $40,000 a year to the province, said the Premier after a cabinet meeting.

Table Tennis Balls In Atlantic Plane

On the record speed flight the Richman-Merrill plane ended today when it landed in South Wales from New York it carried 12,000 table tennis balls in spaces in the wings and elsewhere. The plane was not forced down in the Atlantic so the question whether they would have floated the plane was not tested. Above is a glimpse of Harry Richman as he placed some of the table tennis balls in the plane at the Floyd Bennett Field, New York. A picture of the plane in flight is on Page 2.

Bodies Of Six Are Found With Plane Wreck In Alaska

Group of Men Flown to Spot on Kenai Peninsula Where Steve Mills' Machine Crashed With Party on Fishing Trip; Bodies to Be Brought Out

Associated Press
Anchorage, Alaska, Sept. 3.—Nine experienced woodsmen hacked and tore a trail today to the spot where aerial search parties yesterday reported Pilot Steve Mills and five passengers had lost their lives in an airplane wreck.

A telephone message from E. P. Jensen, Seward publisher, said Pilot Al. Horning had arrived at 5 a.m. (7 a.m., P.S.T.) and got five men to add to the four he took late yesterday to help several airmen reach the bodies and carry them four miles to the nearest landing place, a small lake in the Sitka Lake district of the Kenai Peninsula. It is about sixty miles south of here and about thirty miles northwest of Seward.

Morning said a rescue party had found the wreck on a 2,000-foot ridge. Cause of the tragedy, one of the worst in Alaska flying annals, was not determined.

Besides Mills, noted for mercy flights in Alaska, those listed as dead were: Mr. and Mrs. George Markle, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence David and Augustus Teik, all of Anchorage.

DAUGHTER IN PORTLAND
The Markles were the parents of Lou Ann Markle, ten, recovering in a Portland hospital from a leg infection developed from an injury suffered when an ice skate struck her last spring. She was told nothing of the accident. Markle was employed by the Alaska Railroad, David and Teik were barbers.

ON FISHING TRIP
Headed for a day's fishing on the Russian River, the Mills party left here Sunday, intending to return that evening. When they did not appear by Tuesday, a search was started. Clearing weather enabled observers in three search planes to spot the plane in the timber yesterday.

The fliers left an advance rescue party at the lake, the nearest available landing place, with instructions to push on to the plane.

U.S. CORN CROP LOSSES GREAT

Associated Press
Chicago, Sept. 3.—A consensus of five private crop estimates made public on the Chicago Board of Trade today indicated a 1936 United States corn crop of 1,416,000,000 bushels, 23,000,000 bushels below the latest government figures and the smallest crop in more than a half century.

THREE HELD FOR KIDNAPING

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Sept. 3.—A former screen bathing beauty's story of a night of terror led today to the detention of three men on suspicion of kidnapping and criminal assault.
Marvel Rea, thirty-three, a blue-eyed blonde who once played in the silent films, staggered into the Compton police station at dawn and said she had been seized and attacked at midnight by a hoodlum trio riding in a large red truck.

Flasher's partial description of a suspected truck, radio patrolmen overtook a red-painted vehicle and placed in custody Harvey Zike, twenty-nine, Omarand rancher; Dan Bailey, twenty-three, and Elwood Gudney, twenty-two. All three denied knowledge of the alleged attack.

Fierce Fighting In North Spain

Hand-to-hand Battling in Streets of Behobia As Rebels Try to Drive Through Iron

By ROBERT B. PARKER JR.
Associated Press Correspondent
Behobia, France, Sept. 2.—A spearhead of Moors led the Fascist rebel attack against Spanish Behobia today with socialist government soldiers fighting them hand-to-hand in the streets.

Five armored cars led troops up the river road in to the town, and 2,000 rebel infantrymen followed on both sides of the road.
All rebel troops were raked by machine gun fire from entrenched socialists.

GRENADES THROWN
The Moorish soldiers carried rifles strapped to their backs and a grenade clutched in each hand. The grenades were hurled through windows into

BULLFIGHTERS THREATEN STRIKE

Associated Press
Mexico City, Sept. 3.—The Spanish civil war was held responsible today by some observers for a projected strike of Mexican bullfighters.
The conflict in Spain, they declared, has sent Mexican performers home, flooded local arenas and created an oversupply of talent.

Efforts to arbitrate the demands of the novilleros (apprentices) and matadors (first flight fighters) have failed so far. Unless a compromise is effected, the red and black strike flag will be nailed to the wooden gates of the "Torero" bull ring, calling off the fight scheduled for Sunday.

NO PALESTINE SETTLERS' BAR

British Cabinet Decides Against Suspension of Jewish Immigration

London, Sept. 3.—The London Morning Post said today the cabinet had decided against suspension of Jewish immigration to Palestine as a compromise move to halt disorders in the Holy Land.

"There will be no suspension of Jewish immigration, despite the desire of the local government to compromise with the Arabs in order to end the strife and the campaign of violence," the paper said. "Positive assurances to this effect were given in London yesterday after the cabinet meeting."

The royal commission named to investigate the situation, accepting in the London Daily Telegraph, will not begin its work in Palestine until all disorders are terminated.

FRANCE TO ADD TO DEFENCES

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 3.—A three-point plan for strengthening France's domestic defenses was completed today by Edouard Daladier, Minister of Defense.
The programme will be presented to the French cabinet for discussion Saturday.

Daladier, assisted by the ministers of war, navy and air, drafted the plan to counteract enlargement of the German army from extension of the Nazi military training period from one to two years.

Airplane From New York Lands In Wales After Setting New Speed Record

SEEK TO HALT FORECLOSURE

Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Ltd. Advance Points Against Action

Possible benefits to the city which would result from a stay in foreclosure action against the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Limited in connection with the Ogden Point elevator, are contained in a letter to the City Council from David S. Tait, of Tait & Marchant, solicitors for the company.

The letter was received at the City Hall today.
The company, the letter said, was prepared to co-operate with the city to the best of its ability, both in carrying the expense of the elevator, which it may claim at any time, and in some disposition of it could be made, and in assisting to open up channels for its use.

The letter noted the recent decision of the council to commence foreclosure proceedings constituted a crisis for the company.

EXTRA COSTS
The communication suggests foreclosure would gain nothing for the city except possession of the elevator, which it may claim at any time. Foreclosure would, however, impose further expense on the council, including overhead charges while the elevator was inoperative, and would result in the loss of activity supporting any move to improve the grain trade to the city.
Such activity included the efforts to secure a reduction in the domestic freight rate to that of the export rate, equivalent to a cut of twenty-three cents per hundred.

The company, the letter continues, would be prepared to acquiesce and job in any lease, or conveyance or other deal which the city might be able to make for the elevator. The company would further be prepared to continue payment of the caretaker, the water and power and other necessary charges.

Attention is drawn to action by the company in the past in the way of reducing the city's potential liabilities. The company had been successful in securing reduction of back rent from the government, had carried out repairs, the letter said.

The company was prepared to do its utmost towards reinstating the elevator as a going concern.

Mr. Tait also proposed, on the suggestion of Dr. W. W. Irwin, president of the company, that Victoria's delegates to London on the proposed re-funding scheme interview certain interested parties in Great Britain, who might be interested in using the elevator.

Four Bodies Are Taken From Mine

Feared Six More Men Victims of Blast in West Virginia Pit

Associated Press
Logan, W. Va., Sept. 3.—The number of known dead from an explosion in the MacBeth Mine rose to four today with the recovery of two bodies by rescuers digging desperately through a 400-foot wall of slate behind which six more men were trapped.

The blast killed two men outright and spread deadly after-damp fumes through the workings eight miles south of this mountain town. The mine is owned by the Hutchinson Coal Company.

After several hours of digging, the rescuers came on the bodies of the other two, lying almost buried in mud and debris which filled the shaft.
The bodies recovered were those of Elsie Watts, thirty-two, Andy Gasdik, sixty, Grover Saunders, twenty-eight, and William Reffett, forty.
Prentice Farley, a member of the rescue team, came to the shaft and reported:
"I'm afraid they all are dead."

Pilot Dick Merrill and Harry Richman, Who Plan to Be First to Make U.S.-Europe Speed Round Trip, Greeted at Llwyncelyn, Wales, Just 175 Miles Short of Croydon; Less than Sixteen Hours From New York to Ireland and Less than Eighteen to Landing Place

Associated Press
Llwyncelyn, Carmarthenshire, South Wales, Sept. 3.—Pilot Dick Merrill and Harry Richman, airmen out for a round trip, Atlantic-spanning speed test, landed in a South Wales field today, out of gasoline but safe.
Fighting rough weather near the end of the trip and circling to find position when the directional radio equipment was disabled by lightning resulted in a greater fuel drain than had been expected.
The plane was not damaged.

Flying "about 11,000 feet high all the way," the night club owner and actor from New York and his veteran pilot sped across the Atlantic from New York in less than sixteen hours to outline the speed feats of an imposing list of ocean pilots.

"It was a comfy trip," said Richman, not a whit perturbed by landing 175 miles short of their Croydon-Airport goal. "We are not going to fly back to America right away."

Richman estimated the fliers were in the air "about fifteen and a half to sixteen hours," but did not know the exact landing time. However, D. B. Thomas, a baker at the adjoining town of Llandilo, said he saw the plane flying over his place at 3:15 p.m. (6:15 a.m., P.S.T.) and that it landed shortly thereafter.

This would make the flying time since Merrill and Richman left New York not quite eighteen hours.
They had, however, been reported off the western Irish coast 15 hours and 40 minutes after their takeoff from the Floyd-Bennett field, Brooklyn, at 3:37 p.m. E.S.T. (12:37 p.m., P.S.T.) yesterday.

The first word they were over Ireland came at 1:17 p.m. (4:12 a.m., P.S.T.), from Dingle Bay, on the southwestern tip of the Sharnock lisle.

CROWD AT CROYDON
Messages received here told how a thousand worried spectators had waited under a heavy sky at Croydon for some sign of the plane, which ran into hard rains at the eastern end of its journey. Finally, a telephone in the airport communications office jangled. It was Richman, calling from Llwyncelyn.

Reached at this tiny village later, Richman declared: "The plane ran beautifully. We didn't see the Atlantic for more than an hour at a time. All the way we flew at about 11,000 feet."

"Everything went according to plans up to the end, except half-way across the plane went into a steep nose dive. We both were thrown out of our seats. That certainly was a scare."

"We had to struggle hard for a minute or two to regain control. It seemed an age before we did."

The plane, Richman said, must have averaged more than 200 miles an hour while it was actually over the Atlantic, at times doing 250 miles an hour.

RADIO OUT OF ORDER
He disclosed "the reason you didn't hear us when we got near England was because our radio went out of commission while we were trying to talk to London."

"We were circling around an hour and a half before we could find a suitable landing place. There seemed to be a battle every place."

U.S. Builds Money Reserve Defence

Government Will Keep Working Balance of $1,000,000,000 While Threatening Conditions Abroad Persist, Says Treasury Head

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 3.—Disclosing he would seek $400,000,000 in new cash in the United States treasury's September financing, Secretary Morgenthau said today he planned to keep a working balance of around $1,000,000,000 because of threatening conditions abroad.
Mr. Morgenthau said he thought the billion dollar balance should be retained because "it is the safest insurance we can carry for the American people should anything unforeseen occur."

At an early morning press conference, called to discuss the financing, Mr. Morgenthau declared that "these times and conditions" abroad made him "want to keep the working balance" at a high figure.

In announcing he would seek to borrow $400,000,000 in the Treasury's fall financing operation on September 15, Mr. Morgenthau said this was one of the smallest cash offerings since he assumed office.

CONVERSION ISSUE
He announced that would be a conversion issue for the $514,000,000 of 25 per cent treasury notes which fall due in mid-September.

Alberta's New Plans Moving Slowly

Social Credit On Evolution Basis

It Will Not Come in With a "Bang," Says Minister of Trade, But Will Start Gradually and Then Be Enlarged

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 3.—With the foundation laid for implementation of Social Credit principles in Alberta, the provincial government proceeded today with its plans to build the superstructure and bring into operation a new economic system.

Piloted by Hon. E. C. Manning, Minister of Trade and Industry, whose supervision plans for introducing the new economic theories have been placed, two important measures providing for salient features of Social Credit were approved at the special session of the Legislature which ended Tuesday evening.

However, Mr. Manning emphasized today that the complete Social Credit system had not been set up. Opponents who talked of a "Social Credit plan" failed to realize that an economic change never came into full force with a "bang," the minister added.

Legislation just passed merely provided for machinery to put Social Credit principles into operation, he stated, and as the scheme was enlarged, it would be developed to embrace new fields.

Social Credit and the financial system now in operation would work "side by side" for a time, the minister said, and the Social Credit system would gradually displace the present system.

History proved evolution of economic innovations before they displaced former set-ups transpired gradually and they did not come into complete operation instantaneously, Mr. Manning said.

"So it was with Social Credit," he said. "It was necessary to get under way" was provided for in legislation enacted at the session and the main concern of the government now was to get that machinery working.

Under two separate bills, provision is made for the three main principles of Social Credit—basic dividends, productive loans and just prices.

The Alberta Credit Act empowers the government to establish a credit house into which will be paid "Alberta credit," created by the government, for citizens who have cooperated with the Social Credit "idea" by registering.

Registration, under way since early in August and intended to continue until the end of September, is authorized by the act. By registration the government hopes to obtain production and consumption figures for Alberta, and by paying dividends to citizens, make purchasing power equal.

RUSH IN ALBERTA FOR FORECLOSURE

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 3.—A rush of applications for foreclosure of mortgages in view of the new Alberta legislation was halted in Supreme Court chambers today by Mr. Justice Tweedie. All applications were set over for two weeks to allow study of the new legislation by all concerned in the actions.

The applications were commenced prior to passage of debt adjustment legislation.

To the amount of consumable goods in the province.

Thus the amount of "Alberta credit" to be deposited in the Credit House for each individual is expected to be found.

To guard against such a possibility, the "unearned increment" clause was inserted in the act providing that when the amount of "Alberta credit" power exceeds the total value of consumable goods, percentage of the Alberta credit will be deducted as "unearned increment" when the credit passes through the house.

Provisions for "productive loans" were made in the act under which the credit house may extend "Alberta credit" privileges to citizens who wish to build houses, buy machinery, start business or use the credit for other purposes. There will be no interest on such loans, a charge not exceeding 3 per cent may be made to cover administration expenses.

PRICE DISCUSSION
A move toward the "just price" feature was taken in the amendment to the Trade and Industry Act which empowers the government to set up a board which would investigate price spreads and fix prices. Mr. Manning stressed the board would not set prices for all articles.

POSITIONS SHELLED
Government batteries, meanwhile, poured shells on rebel positions outside of the city as strong reinforcements rushed to aid haggard Socialist defenders.

The Socialist troops were under the command of anarchists. The anarchists seized command of the government forces after Socialist officers had proposed tentative surrender to the insurgents.

Sixty hostages were marched out to a cemetery at Irwin and about by a government firing squad, report received here stated.

By RAMON BLARDONEY
Associated Press
Madrid, Sept. 3.—Government troops occupied the important rebel stronghold of Huesca, thirty-six miles northeast of Zaragoza, the war ministry reported today.

The Socialist militia marched into the northeastern provincial capital with fixed bayonets during the early morning hours.

An entire company of Fascist rebels joined the government forces before the occupation, the ministry said.

The government also laid claim to victory during a fierce engagement with insurgents in the Estramadura district in western central Spain.

COLUMB ROUTED
A rebel column advancing on Lucena, small seaport on the northern coast, in Oviedo province, was reported routed by government columns.

Soldiers in the Fascist ranks were declared to have mutilated, killing their officers. The government troops captured hundreds of rifles, fourteen machine guns and four mortars, the official report asserted.

Southern military forces of the Madrid regime were concentrated against rebel advances in Toledo province.

Bilbao on the northern coast again was raided by rebel planes. Several bombs were dropped, but the government claimed there was no damage.

Anti-aircraft guns and government pursuit planes routed the rebels, officials said.

DENIED KING'S BOAT SWAMPED

Associated Press
Athens, Sept. 3.—Usually well-informed sources today said they had heard nothing of an incident in which King Edward VIII. holidaying aboard the yacht Nahlin, was reported to have been thrown into the water from a skiff he was rowing.

The report was carried in an Athens dispatch to The London Daily Herald.

KING LAYS WREATH AT GALLIOLI

Associated Press
Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 3.—King Edward interrupted his vacation today for a pilgrimage to the graves of the British war dead at Gallipoli.

A Turkish delegation boarded His Majesty's holiday yacht Nahlin at Tenedos Island to welcome the King on behalf of President Kemal Ataturk.

Disembarking at Sed-ul-Bahr, King, Edward and his party, accompanied by the Turkish group, motored, to Gallipoli, to place wreaths on the British graves.

Associated Press
London, Sept. 3.—King Edward, The London Daily Herald said today, got a ducking when a skiff he was rowing overturned at a Greek watering place.

A dispatch to the newspaper from Athens said a motorboat from the yacht Nahlin passed his skiff at full speed. The wash from the motorboat overturned the small craft and the account related.

The motorboat quickly turned about and picked up the swimming King, The Herald said.

By Science Service
Williams Bay, Wis., Sept. 3.—What is probably the "coldest" star yet discovered by astronomers has been found by Dr. Charles H. Struve of the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago here. It was announced by Dr. Otto Struve, director of the observatory, today.

The phrase "red hot" to most folks means high temperature, but in stars it is associated with relative coolness, pointed out by Dr. Struve. The stars discovered by Dr. Struve are redder than any previously known, and cannot be photographed in ordinary blue light.

While most stars have temperatures between 3,000 and 30,000 degrees, with a few "hot" ones at 50,000 degrees Centigrade, the new Hertzler stars have temperatures estimated at 1,000 degrees and below.

Use of special new infra-red sensitive photographic plates made possible the discovery. Five-hour exposures on the twenty-four-inch Yerkes reflecting telescope were necessary to obtain the newest astronomical finding.

Dr. Struve declared, "in an effort to discover more infra-red stars and possibly even stars which are cooler than those he has found this far."

GOVERNOR ARGUES FOR STERILIZATION
Toronto, Sept. 3.—Sterilization is the only possible solution for Ontario's problem of the feeble-minded, Lieutenant-Governor H. A. Bruce told the Ontario Municipal Association in convention here today.

"The mentally deficient admittedly have mentally deficient children," said Dr. Bruce. "The purpose of sterilization is to check their propagation."

"For every person housed in mental hospitals, there are, in all probability at least two outside and their number grows steadily. Feeble-mindedness is prolific," he asserted. "The threat of this population in Ontario is increasing."

REICH DELAYS NEUTRAL MOVE

Germany Hesitant as Russia, Hungary, Finland Join Britain, France and Other Nations For Non-intervention in Spain

London, Sept. 3.—A hesitant Germany held up convocation of the Anglo-French international neutrality committee today as three more nations joined the group.

Soviet Russia, Hungary and Finland accepted offers to serve with the twelve nations which already have agreed to band together in an effort to co-ordinate European forces for non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

It was felt in informed quarters that actual work of the committee could get under way when Germany agreed to co-operate.

Members of the remaining nations which the group felt should join mutual efforts if they were to be successful, agreed last yesterday on a conditional basis.

The British and French governments are examining the Portuguese reply and are willing to adopt a reasonable definition of the scope of the committee that will make control effective, but their chief consideration is to get the committee working.

"It cannot be denied the insurgents in Spain are receiving much help from abroad than the government, nor can it be questioned that Portugal has been the corridor for passage of supplies to the insurgents."

The conference, said The Manchester Guardian, is already mentioned by Germany's attitude in the Spanish war.

Associated Press
Seattle, Sept. 3.—An amendment to the strike-bound Seattle Post-Intelligencer's answer to the American Newspaper Guild's complaint forced a two-day postponement to September 10 of the regional labor relations board hearing.

The hearing, to be held in Judge Roscoe R. Smith's department of the Superior Court, originally was set for next Tuesday, primary election day.

The newspaper's amendment merely asked the name of King Features Syndicate in the challenge to the validity of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Others listed in the answer were Hearst Corporations, which seek to have the Guild complaint quashed because they contend they had no place of business in the state.

IN TWENTY-SECOND DAY
The strike, called by the Guild, entered its twenty-second day today, with a handful of pickets surrounding the company's plant.

The Guild charges two reporters were dismissed for Guild activity, but the company contends the reason was for cause.

The Post-Intelligencer also disputes the jurisdiction of the Labor Relations Board.

Prof. Richard G. Tyler, chairman of the executive committee of the Northwest People's Publishing Company said its proposed new morning newspaper would have a "Jeffersonian democratic" policy. The guild announced it would continue to publish its daily in spite of the new publication.

Central labor council, whose action three weeks ago in placing the Post-Intelligencer on the "unfair list" precipitated the picketing of the plant by various other unions, denounced the Washington Industrial Council and the paper in a resolution adopted at its weekly meeting yesterday evening.

Claude P. O'Reilly, council president, a member of the teamsters' union, was authorized to select a committee to direct the raising of funds in behalf of the strikers and to finance a "publicity campaign."

Mayor John F. Dore will again head pro-Guild speakers in another guild-sponsored meeting tonight at Ballard, a suburb.

Since the 1933 election, however, when Conservatives did not officially take part, the declared affiliations have changed.

The recent ousting by the executive of the C.C.F. British Columbia branch of their House leader, Rev. Robert Connell, and two other C.C.F. members has reduced the strength of that party to four. The two Independent Non-Partisans, Ralph Bruha and Olive Planta; one Independent, Herbert Ancoomb, and one Unionist, R. H. Pooley, are all members of the British Columbia Conservative Association. Planta declared himself a Conservative last winter and all attended this summer's party convention which elected Dr. Patterson leader.

ROUND-TRIP FLIERS ITALIAN SLAIN IN BARCELONA

CROSS ATLANTIC

RADIO OUT OF ORDER
At Croydon, Captain Jim Town, Canadian pilot of Merrill, who had been looking for the fliers to lead them into port, loaded 100 gallons of fuel in two-gallon tins into his plane and took off for Bristol, just as another plane-piloted by Captain Leslie Jackson left with fifty gallons of fuel in an attempt to land beside the "Lady Peace."

The Trans-Atlantic plane will be given the fifty gallons and then flown to Bristol to take on the additional supply for the rest of the flight to Croydon.

The place where the plane came down is in a desolate part of Carmarthenshire. This village joins the larger town of Llandilo.

Lashing rains greeted the fliers at the eastern side of the Atlantic. Hundreds began to get at Croydon at 1 p.m. to greet the New York night club singer and his pilot, according to messages received here.

PING-PONG BALLS
Customs officials debated whether the 12,000 table tennis balls which the fast, low-winged monoplane carried for buoyancy would be subject to duty.

However, it was decided not to levy the 25 per cent duty on "sports requisites" unless Richman elects to autograph and sell them.

FASTEST ON RECORD
The craft, powered with a 1,000-horsepower motor, made by far the fastest Atlantic crossing yet recorded. It took Col. Charles A. Lindbergh twenty-eight hours and thirty-eight minutes to reach Dingle Bay on his solo flight, and one of the more recent crossings, by Lieutenant Commander George Pond and Cesare Sabelti, took more than thirty-two hours, in May, 1934.

Last year Felix Wulfsberg, a young Lithuanian-American, crashed near Baltimore, Ireland, after a flight of twenty-three hours and fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Amelia Harhart Putnam, in 1932, required fourteen hours and fifty-six minutes to reach Ireland from Harbor Grace, Nfld., a much shorter distance.

Post and Galt flew from Harbor Grace to England in sixteen hours and seven minutes, in 1931.

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 3.—Dick Merrill and Harry Richman disclosed an unofficially computed record of about seventeen hours forty-five minutes from New York to Great Britain today when they set their monoplane Lady Peace down in Wales.

Aviators praised the flight as "hitting it on the button," saying the point of landing indicated the ship was flown on a perfect Great Circle course for London.

New York, Sept. 3.—Eastern air lines officials said they believed a record for radio telephoning from an airplane had been set at 7:30 a.m. when the Jacksonville office of the airline conversed with Harry Richman, 3,683 miles away.

The conversation came through perfectly, Richman said he and Dick Merrill, bound from New York to England, were at 10,000 feet and 150 miles off the coast of Ireland.

He added they had just lunched on tea and sandwiches.

Richman maintained the two-way wireless communication system with which the fliers kept in touch with eastern air lines receivers at Newark, N.J., Jacksonville and New Orleans.

A radio directional compass developed by commercial radio interests was used on the flight, and the plane's engine was of a type that the United States army had retained on its secret list for a year.

The fliers' longest stretch over water was 1,982 miles from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Cobh, Irish Free State.

NO VOLUNTARY WHEAT POOL NOW
Canadian Press
Regina, Sept. 3.—A voluntary wheat pool will not be organized in Saskatchewan this year, the board of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool decided in executive session here today.

No useful purpose would be served, it was decided, by initiating a voluntary pool, and such a step might effectively prevent any possibility of securing a change in the minimum price announced by the Federal Wheat Board.

Protest has been made to Ottawa against the board's floor price of 87½ cents a bushel for wheat.

Sir E. Beatty Declares Canada Not Turning to Fascism Or Socialism

Canadian Press
Calgary, Sept. 3.—People of Canada are not seeking to change their historic form of democratic government for the alternatives of Fascism or Socialism, declared Sir Edward Beatty, premier of the Canadian National Railway, here yesterday evening.

"They may be in error in their expectation of what the government can accomplish, but they are not in the fatal error of thinking that tyranny or dictatorship is the way out of our troubles," Sir Edward told members of the Calgary Canadian Club.

"To me it appears certain," he said, "that any troubles which exist in this country can and will be cured by an improvement in our conduct of our present system of government, and not by some radical change in the relations of the state and the citizens."

The railway president defended political leaders against the charge that present conditions were "all their fault."

"In plain truth," said Sir Edward, "they arise from the incompetence of us, the citizens." He warned against "unchecked hounding of public authorities" and the "grab-bag treasury" groups seeking benefit without thought of ultimate consequences.

RAILWAY PROBLEM
Discussing national transportation problems, he said Canada could gain nothing from a "Rip Van Winkle attitude towards modern transportation problems."

"It is said the Canadian Pacific is trying to seize the people's railway," he said. "What I have suggested is an arrangement between the government and the owners of the Canadian Pacific for the joint operation of our two railway systems on the most efficient basis. The object is to save money for the taxpayers who now must subsidize the deficits, and for the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific. I do not suggest the Canadian National system should be turned over to the Canadian Pacific though I could imagine several worse fates for it than that."

NEW COIN INDUSTRY
Burnt River, Ont., Sept. 3. (Canadian Press)—A new industry has sprung up in this district about twenty-five miles north of Lindsay. Several residents have found employment gathering spruce cones for the Ontario reforestation department at $2 a bushel for spruce and $3 cents a bushel for white pine.

NEW MEDICINE TO LESSEN SUICIDES

Associated Press
Hanover, N.H., Sept. 3.—A new medicine, which stops nervous stomach spasms and corrects the peculiar sleeping disease known as narcolepsy, was reported to the American Psychological Association yesterday.

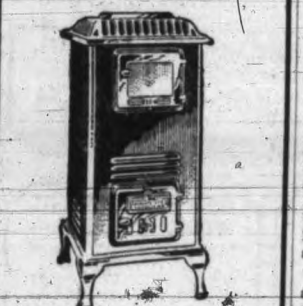

Dr. Abraham Myerson of the Boston State College at Springfield, Mass., asserted the drug had been found extremely useful in the treatment of nervous diseases caused by the swift tempo of modern living.

He cited several cases in which contemplation of suicide, extreme mental depression, and loss of the sensation of pleasure had been "remarkably influenced by benzedrine."

"The drug itself is related to adrenalin, powerful heart stimulant."

North Plane Search Widened TWO MISSING EIGHTEEN DAYS

Winter Flying Equipment to Be Sent From Alberta Into Barren Lands, Far North, Where Planes Hunting For Flight-Lieut. S. Coleman and J. Forty

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 3.—With the freeze-up due in another three or four weeks at Fort Reliance, preparations were going forward today for transportation by boat of winter flying equipment and additional supplies to prevent any unnecessary delay in the search for Flight-Lieutenant Sheldon Coleman and Aircraftman J. Forty, R.C.A.F. airmen, lost eighteen days in the barren lands north of Fort Reliance.

Changing his plans, Squadron Leader R. S. Grandy, officer commanding the R.C.A.F. Winnipeg, returned by train to his headquarters yesterday after making arrangements for the shipment of supplies. He had been scheduled to fly north to the searchers' base at Fort Reliance.

FROM McMURRAY
With Squadron Leader L. F. Stevenson, Vancouver, Air Force branch, Department of National Defence, and Major J. E. Hunter, medical officer of Military District 13, a Canadian Airways airplane was scheduled to leave McMurray today on a flight to Fort Reliance. Squadron Leader Stevenson flew from Edmonton to McMurray today. Mr. Hunter traveled by train from Calgary to McMurray. He will remain at the base to give any medical assistance necessary.

At present five airplanes, including a radio-equipped commercial machine, are taking part in the search and Pilot Matt Berry was winging his way north today with pontoons to repair a sixth ship.

AUSTRALIA-JAPAN TRADE AGREEMENT

Canadian Press
Canberra, Australia, Sept. 3.—Agreement was reached yesterday on an Australian proposal for settlement of the trade dispute between Australia and Japan.

Secrecy was maintained regarding the conditions of the agreement, but it was believed to involve modification of the cotton and rayon quotas.

The trade dispute began after Australia last May announced a tariff policy designed to divert more trade to the United Kingdom.

TO HEAR LOCAL PLEA ON TARIFF

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Tariff Board announced yesterday evening that the inquiry authorized by Finance Minister Charles Dunnington into the tariff classification of plastics of all kinds, will be held September 25.

On that date the board will also hear an application by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria, for reduction or elimination of customs duties under all tariffs on motion picture and sound equipment.

NEW DEBT ACTS COME INTO FORCE

Edmonton, Sept. 3.—Premier Albert of Alberta yesterday denied he had declared the government would withhold proclamation of debt adjusting legislation approved at special session of the provincial legislature if bondholders and mortgage companies put forward satisfactory proposals.

Both the amendment to the Debt Adjustment Act, 1933, and the Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act, came into effect when given assent by Lieutenant-Governor W. L. Walsh at the close of the session Tuesday evening.

"That is a deliberate falsehood," the Premier said of the report he had promised the acts would not be proclaimed immediately. "I never made any such statement."

FARMER MADE OVER MILLION

Will of G. Baylis "Barley King" of England, Probated

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 3.—The story of how the late George Baylis of Oxford, Berkshire, made a fortune of almost £250,000 (£250,000) by farming without livestock, was read today with interest and surprise throughout the United Kingdom.

How he did it was explained at an agricultural conference at King's Lynn, Norfolk. Baylis's will was proved last week for £245,596.

C. S. Orwin, director of the Institute for research in agricultural economics at Oxford University, told the conference that Baylis began farming in Berkshire in 1866 in the traditional way for grain and roots with bullocks and sheep.

After six years Baylis lost £600. Then he decided to abolish livestock from his farming system and grow grain by the application of ammonia and phosphates. He evolved a six-course rotation with three grain crops—two bare fallows and a clover crop.

FARMS 12,000 ACRES
Baylis made money while his neighbors either went bankrupt or stopped growing grain. Before his death he was farming 12,000 acres, half of which he owned. The only livestock on it was 300 working horses.

The agricultural correspondent of The London News-Chronicle writes: "It is perhaps fortunate for England that Baylis has not found many imitators, for his system was to acquire a chain of farms and work them with gangs of men who traveled around the enormous estates. Villages became obliterated in the process. Farms were either pulled down or allowed to decay."

Baylis grew nothing but grain. He was known as the Barley King.

Victorian Heads New Youth Board

Alan Chambers Made Chairman of Committee Which Will Aid National Employment Commission in Placing Young Men

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Canada's new Youth Employment Committee, which will advise the National Employment Commission on the problem of unemployed youth, as announced by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, has the following as its members: Alan Chambers, Victoria, B.C. (chairman), Robert F. Thompson, Toronto, Joseph McCall, Newmarket, Ont., W. C. Nickerson, Halifax and Andre Montpetit, Montreal.

The minister said that in the National Employment Commission provision was made for a youth employment committee and a women's employment committee. The youth employment committee just established would give special attention to the youth aspect of unemployment and relief.

The committee will be asked to assist the National Employment Commission in the formulation of measures to utilize unemployed youth on work and training projects and to improve existing facilities for vocational guiding and placement. Mr. Rogers said yesterday. He added a quorum of the committee had been actively at work during the past month.

THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE have been closely identified with youth organizations in various parts of the Dominion, the minister said. "I feel sure the National Employment Commission and the government will profit from the service which will be rendered by this committee. It will provide in Canada an organization with a purpose corresponding largely to that of the national youth administration of the United States and agencies in many other countries."

It is expected the personnel of the women's employment committee, which will include representatives of the younger women, will be announced shortly.

As provided in the act, members of both these committees will serve without salary. They will be allowed living and traveling expenses while engaged on the work of the committee.

Alan Chambers, chairman of the new committee, is twenty-seven years old. He was educated in England, Germany and Denmark. He started the first school in a relief camp in British Columbia in 1931, during which time he was in active contact with the camps. He was responsible for a survey of conditions in relief camps in British Columbia in 1935. In the 1935 federal general election he stood as Liberal candidate in Nanaimo.

"Those who followed my campaign in the riding of Nanaimo last October will remember that I asked the people to give me a mandate to represent them at Ottawa, that I might impress upon the federal authorities, as a young man, the urgent problem constituted by unemployment among the youth of this country," Mr. Chambers telegraphed The Times today.

"On many platforms, I pointed out that in my opinion, the greatest problem before the people of Canada today is how they are going to absorb the young men and women into the economic life of the Dominion.

"That the federal government realizes the particular importance of this phase of the unemployment problem is proven by their action in setting up a youth employment committee to advise them on a national policy."

"In accepting the chairmanship of this committee without salary I am proud of the opportunity to serve my country and to contribute my small share towards this attempt to ameliorate and I hope, to solve our greatest problem."

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Gerald C. Welford, forty-three, general supervisor of marketing branches for the Imperial Oil Ltd., died here yesterday.

Well known in the Canadian oil industry, Mr. Welford began his business career in Winnipeg. He was supervisor of branches in the prairie provinces and British Columbia in 1933, after which he moved east.

PRIZE PIGEONS IN CHOP SUEY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 3.—Frequenters of sixty-nine-year-old Yee Kee's restaurant discovered the chop suey they had been eating for 50 cents a plate was fit for a king.

Yee Kee found it out, too, in police court. He admitted buying pigeons from neighborhood boys for 10 to 25 cents each.

Police Lieut. Sylvester Stoehr said the boys had sold $1,000 worth of "kidnapped" pigeons, many valued at $100 each.

Yee Kee was released. The boys were turned over to juvenile court.

MINE DISPUTE IN SOUTH WALES

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 3.—A trade union dispute threatened today to develop into a general strike at Bedwas, South Wales, as 800 men were reported to have barricaded themselves in the pit at the Bedwas colliery.

Bedwas is the centre of a trade union dispute and threats have been made of a general strike Monday if the issue is not settled.

For the present the Bedwas Colliery Company has made it a condition of employment that its employees are members of the Miners' Industrial Union. Nearly 1,000 of them, however, want to join the South Wales Miners' Federation.

Central Europe Bloc Debated

Conference Between King Boris of Bulgaria and Mussolini Comes as Surprise; Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Perhaps Poland in Move

Havas News Agency
Rome, Sept. 3.—A new step in the reported drive for a central European "anti-Communist bloc" was seen here today following disclosure of a meeting Wednesday between Premier Mussolini and King Boris of Bulgaria.

The meeting revived persistent reports that Germany and Italy were seeking formation of a six-power central European bloc, linking the two Fascist nations with Poland, Austria, Hungary and perhaps Poland.

Boris's talk with Mussolini came as a complete surprise, as there had been no previous indication the Bulgarian monarch would see the Fascist leader.

One of the central powers in the Great War, Bulgaria is the only Balkan nation not linked in any alliance.

HORTHY IN TALKS
Forecasts of an anti-Communist front, led by Germany and Italy, attained new importance last week following the conversations between Regent Nicholas Horthy of Hungary and Chancellor Hitler at the Reichs-fuehrer's Berchtesgaden summer retreat.

Immediately after the Horthy-Hitler meeting, unconfirmed reports in central European capitals said the German, Chancellor and Mussolini would meet in Berlin late this month.

Moscow, Sept. 3.—Two important Soviet officials were dismissed yesterday by the Communist executive committee.

The authoritative newspaper articles of Karl Radek, whose discussions of Soviet affairs were based on close contact with high Soviet officials, still were missing from all publications. There was considerable speculation concerning the status of Radek, who was implicated by the confessions of defendants in the recent conspiracy trial.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Gerald C. Welford, forty-three, general supervisor of marketing branches for the Imperial Oil Ltd., died here yesterday.

Well known in the Canadian oil industry, Mr. Welford began his business career in Winnipeg. He was supervisor of branches in the prairie provinces and British Columbia in 1933, after which he moved east.

Mr. Forester's Fine Victory

THE ELECTIONS OF VANCOUVER.
Burrard looked after their own interests and the interests of the province as a whole yesterday when they chose Mr. J. Howard Forester to succeed Mr. G. C. McGeer, M.P., as their representative in the Legislature. His plurality over his nearest opponent was 376. The figures follow: Forester, Liberal, 7,405; Telford, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, 7,029; Patterson, Conservative, 5,605; Walker, Socialist, 45.

To win a four-cornered fight with such a comfortable majority as did Mr. Forester is a commendable achievement. The victory is all the more striking because the Liberal standard-bearer had for his chief opponents the leader of the British Columbia section of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and the leader of the British Columbia Conservative Association. Another feature of the result is the lead which Dr. Telford piled up over Dr. Patterson.

With the government's recent triumph in Omiceva, the decision of Vancouver-Burrard yesterday leaves the division of party strength in the Legislature just as it was after the general election of 1933, the official standing being: Liberals, thirty-five; C.C.F., seven; Independent Non-Partisan, two; Independents, two; Unionist, one; Labor, one. Total, forty-eight. Vancouver-Burrard, incidentally, is a two-member seat, and the other one is occupied by Mrs. Helen Douglas Smith who, with Mr. McGeer, won it against ten other candidates in 1933.

Yesterday's result naturally will have a disheartening effect on the Conservative party. Three years ago, of course, it almost completely effaced itself from the provincial political horizon and not a single Conservative, as such, was elected. Only recently the party revived itself and figuratively expanded its chest in hopeful anticipation of great things.

Mr. R. H. Pooley ran as a Unionist in 1933; but it was not likely that he could shed the party mantle he has so conscientiously worn since he entered public life. For many years before the general election he was a Conservative, has been during the intervening period, and, we presume, will be until he shakes off this mortal coil.

Conservatives in Vancouver-Burrard were positive that their standard-bearer would be elected. Their advertisements warned the electors that "Only Patterson Can Defeat Telford," that they were to "Make No Mistake—Patterson Will Win Burrard." An attempt was made to extract some capital out of the fact that at several meetings Dr. Daniel McLellan was chairman—the same Dr. McLellan who acted as campaign manager for Hon. Gordon Sloan and Mr. Gordon Wisner three years ago. It did not work. And when the ballots were counted last night it was discovered, as already known, that it was only Mr. Forester who could beat Dr. Telford, and that both Mr. Forester and Dr. Telford gave Dr. Patterson a very sound trouncing.

The moral to be drawn from the decision of Vancouver-Burrard, a very important riding in Canada's third largest city, is that after three years of government under the Premiership of Hon. T. D. Pattullo, who is so ably supported by his cabinet colleagues, the electors of that constituency are satisfied with the manner in which their affairs are being dealt with across James Bay.

The Irrepressible Welshman

MR. LLOYD GEORGE, BRITAIN'S wartime Prime Minister, is going to Germany. He wants to find out how unemployment is being handled under Nazi rule. It is taken for granted that he will have a chat with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Opponents of the wily "little Welshman" almost get out of breath declaring that he is "through." True, there is little likelihood that he will "come back." Prime Ministers are like prizefighters, after they have reached the zenith of their career and ambition—with several notable exceptions, of course—they have to be content to rest on their laurels.

Mr. Lloyd George made his initial mistake when he clung to office as the leader of Britain's Coalition Government too long. He won the khaki election in the winter of 1918—after the Armistice—on the cry that he wanted the authority of the electors to clear up the mess which the great conflict had bequeathed to Britain. The political salad dressing with which he garnished his appeal for endorsement took the form of a "minced" Kaiser. He was all for hanging Wilhelm Hohenzollern on the nearest lamp post.

All went well, or fairly well, with Mr. Lloyd George until the glamour of his wizardry during the dark years of war had begun to wear off. Had he gone to the country again, say, in 1920, or even 1921, as a Liberal, the hard-shelled Tories—figuratively foaming at the mouth while the "star" of Limehouse days was very much in charge—might have thought better of their famous Carlton Club decision to oust the Prime Minister and get back to party lines.

In 1922, however, after Tory die-hards had had their meeting, the decline of Mr. Lloyd George, as a real factor in British politics, began. But his views on conditions in Germany will make interesting reading nevertheless. He will not be satisfied with superficialities.

Victoria Sets A Record

VICTORIA HAS EVERY REASON to be gratified with this year's tourist business. While it was hardly to be supposed that the peak business of 1929 had been surpassed by that of 1936, the presence on the streets of the city and on the highways of the island of so many cars from practically every state of the neighboring republic and distant parts of Canada had prepared us for something in the nature of Publicity Commissioner Warren's cheerful announcement of yesterday.

Mr. Warren tells us that a total of 17,501 foreign cars passed through the hands of the customs authorities at Victoria and Sidney within the eight-month period from January 1 to August 31, that this figure shows an increase of twenty-four cars over the eight-month period of the peak tourist year of 1929, when the Canadian National and Edmonds ferries were operating in addition to the regular Canadian Pacific and Puget Sound Navigation Company's services.

A little later on, after the statisticians have made their calculations, we shall learn what amount of "found money" this very striking increase in motor travel to Vancouver Island represents. Part of the growth of this year's tourist business, of course, has been reflected from week to week in higher bank clearings. In any event, the Publicity Bureau's statement, made public yesterday, will impart a feeling of optimism to local business.

Incidentally, we have in it one more additional proof that it pays to advertise.

The Voice of Sanity

"I HATE WAR." THIS WAS THE keynote of President Roosevelt's speech at Chautauqua Lake, New York, the other day. He had traveled to this noted educational centre to make the address to serious-minded listeners on peace and how to maintain it.

The President said in part: "I have seen war. I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from the wounded. I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. I have seen cities destroyed. I have seen 200 limping, exhausted men come out of line—the survivors of a regiment of 1,000 that went forward forty-eight hours before. I have seen children starving. I have seen the agony of mothers and wives. I hate war."

The New York Times expressed what apparently is the attitude of many United States commentators on this part of the President's speech. Says the influential New York daily: "All told, the Chautauqua address was one of the finest compositions that have come from Mr. Roosevelt's pen. It was eloquent and moving in those passages which showed how he in his own experience and his own soul had come to loathe war. Its appeal will surely make a wide response in the United States, and, by its high and impartial tone, be a voice heard in the uttermost parts of the earth."

Mr. Roosevelt's sentiments about war synchronize with those of the people in practically every country of the world. He knows, as every sane person knows, that war not only is futile and costly but settles nothing. Why, and the echo answers why, do nations resort to the tactics of the barroom to settle their disputes?

Frocks and Futures

GRADUALLY WE HAVE BECOME accustomed to women's clothes that reveal the wearers in varying degrees of frankness. But now the Parisian dressmakers are promoting an idea that brings a chill of apprehension. They propose to reveal through clothes not only the external woman, but the innermost secrets of her heart and the fabric of her being. All this is to be done by working into the clothes the celestial symbols and astrological dingbats which the dressmaker's own private astrologer says govern the lady's personality and future.

Go slow, ladies! Picture yourself at dinner with that man to whom you are being especially sweet. He casts a wayward eye at a frilled ruffle or embroidered border of madame's costume, and if he is a student of the stars; the symbols may terrify him.

Notes

What the C.C.F. may need next is a Telford purge.

A lock expert is coming from the east to open a safe in Alaska. Another case of frozen assets.

The two new doctor-leaders of the opposition parties were left at the post the first time out.

The new B.C. Conservative leader did not get even as far as first base in yesterday's election in Burrard.

At moments in this Spanish civil war, one cannot tell whether the winners will have to learn Italian or Russian.

Vacation travel really is instructive. How astonishing it has been to many to learn that people in other sections are almost like "regular folks."

It will be quite understandable if the Rev. Robert Connell, after being deposed and expelled from the C.C.F. and literally hanged, drawn and quartered, is smiling broadly today.

If the C.C.F. leader cannot make the grade in a strong proletarian riding such as Burrard, with the "bourgeoisie" vote divided between the two old parties, there is not so much to fear from the C.C.F. as some persons had believed.

It is not often that a candidate has the distinction of bowing over two party leaders at one time, as Mr. Forester did in defeating both the C.C.F. and Conservative parties' new leaders in yesterday's by-election in Vancouver-Burrard.

LOOSE ENDS

A gentleman attacks something sacred—A new scientific theory is suggested—The cost is four billions—An alderman can't have a free meal—And the storm damage is high.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LABEL

A GENTLEMAN writes to this newspaper to say that the only true sea serpent in the world belongs to Okeanos Lake and that our immortal cadborosaurus is just a fake. This is a serious allegation. It is all right for people to write to the paper and denounce governments, economic systems and religions. It is even all right when they denounce me; but when they begin to tamper with our sea serpent something must be done. To doubt the existence of Cadborosaurus and say he is only a school of porpoises is bad enough, but to compare him with the small, miserable, fresh water eel which is supposed to infest Okeanos Lake on Saturday nights when the Vernon liquor store is open late—this, one feels confident, is an insult which Victorians will not lightly accept.

This new controversy gives me a graceful opportunity to salvage a new and startling theory about the sea serpents of Victoria and Okeanos. I realize that, like all scientific theories, it will be scoffed at, and that ignorant people will mock at me, but this happens to all daring and revolutionary thinkers in the scientific field. My theory about the two sea serpents is that there aren't any sea serpents at all. This is a remote possibility which has entirely escaped public opinion. It may be a wild suggestion, but it is worth investigating anyway.

FOUR BILLIONS

IT HAS just been discovered that the Great War has cost Canada $4,000,000,000 (four billion dollars) to date, and the cost, in interest, pensions and so on, is still going up merrily. As the freight isn't being reduced and there seems no prospect of it being reduced, the total cost may well be double four billions before something happens to it.

It has also been calculated by an English economist that $1,000,000,000 represents $1 a minute from the birth of Christ until the present. Canada's war bill thus represents $4 a minute from the birth of Christ until the present. And if all these dollars were laid from end to end they would stretch a considerable distance and buy quite a few groceries.

The quickest way of retiring this war debt will be to get involved in another of Europe's trials and tribulations. Because if we go into another war the old war debt will have to be repudiated so that we can contract a new one. But as a matter of fact, everybody who can add two and two together knows that if we go on in America as we are going now, stretching our existing financial system to the breaking point and refusing to substitute a new one, then the debts will never be paid away.

Most rich men are definitely gambling on that by putting at least 50 per cent of their fortunes into common stocks which, they hope, will rise after fixed investments like bonds have been inflated out of existence. On Wall Street the only question is when the inflation will occur. Some say it is already under way, through the United States government's remarkable feat of forcing the banks to absorb all its borrowings until they are choking on U.S. bonds. All this is too deep for you and me to understand, but we should be able to understand in a faint fashion what a war bill of four millions means to a small country like this.

JOY RIDE

THE CITY FATHERS, I gather by letters to the press, are in a jam with the electors, and a civic election not far off, either. The suggestion that some of the boys should be sent to England on a little junket to reduce the city's debt by their high-powered salesmanship, when Vancouver has tried the same thing and failed miserably, seems to be resented by the public. The father is taking it pen in hand to say that the city fathers shall not be allowed to get away with this monstrous thing, and long complicated financial arguments are advanced to show the unsoundness of it.

Ah, but the public's resentment is not against the refunding scheme at all. Even if the scheme were the best in the world; even if it would cut taxes in half tomorrow morning, the public wouldn't like it—not if it involved a free trip for the mayor and some aldermen. Here is a curious twist of human nature which wiser politicians than our innocent city fathers have learned long ago: The public will let a government build a P.O.E. Railway, drain Okeanos, settle the stump land of Merville, waste millions in futile roads; but let a politician spend a few hundred dollars on a business trip and instantly the public is aroused to fury.

The Pattullo government spent a few thousands traveling to Ottawa and, though it brought back a grant of $750,000 a year which will go on indefinitely; the only thing the public remembers is the ministers' traveling expenses. The reason, of course, is that the public can't think in terms of millions, or even hundreds of thousands, and it doesn't care much if they are wasted. But the wise politician must be careful about the hundreds. The public understands them all right. It may not comprehend finance, but it can conjure up vivid and horrid pictures of aldermen lounging luxuriously in a London hotel and perhaps spending seventy-five cents on dinner with a movie afterwards, and even if this cuts our interest to nothing, such pictures send the patriotic voter into an ecstasy of envy. He would rather pay higher taxes than see any of his public servants have a good time. The refunding scheme may not be any good, but if it were the public wouldn't like it; not if it meant a free dinner for an alderman.

SEASONAL LOSS

NOW THAT summer seems to have fled and it is necessary once more to face the grim realities of life, we have been taking a consult up at our lake to estimate the damage of the storm which has swept these regions pretty continuously for the last two months. Evidently the toll has been pretty heavy. As the newspapers put it in their customary accounts of famines, train wrecks, cyclones and marine disasters:

The dead: Three crawfish, one catfish, and two turtles.

The injured: One canoe, four small sailboats, one mongrel dog, one axe, and all the neighbors' peace of mind.

The missing: One fishing rod, four fishing spoons, five turtles, one oarlock, an incalculable amount of pop and candy, three dolls and all our interest in the affairs of the world.

Good-bye, summer.

PORT ALBERNI SYMPHONY

From The West Coast Advocate, Port Alberni

There's music in the air in Port Alberni: the music of hammer and saw and cement mixer, swelling from every street and avenue in the city into a mighty crescendo of sound that is the symphony of this busy, growing city at the head of the British market waiting to buy whatever he had to sell is sheer tommyrot. Destructive as it is, empire trade is not something to be had "merely for the asking."

Rebuilding London

From a London Correspondent
The City authorities have drawn up a plan which, if carried out, will change the face of London. It has been sent to the Minister of Health for his approval.

London certainly needs rebuilding almost entirely. Every summer the traffic becomes noticeably more dense. Last Saturday morning I sat in a block for ten minutes and, looking behind me, I saw a compact mass of motionless vehicles like a huge articulated snake stretching three quarters of the entire length of Regent Street.

In the city, conditions are even worse. The streets are generally narrower and the volume of traffic greater. London was not originally planned to carry one-hundredth of traffic it now contains; rebuilding has usually taken the wrong course of erecting larger buildings on sites with the result that the streets remain as narrow and tortuous as ever.

This cannot go on indefinitely. The City Corporation's plan provides for the widening and improvement of many of the city streets. Among them are Threadneedle Street; Aldersgate Street (parts to be widened from forty-four feet six inches to seventy feet; Gresham Street; Leadenhall Street; Aldgate and Aldgate High Street; Fenchurch Street (to fifty feet); Upper and Lower Thames Street. These last two it is proposed to widen over their whole length, linking Blackfriars with the Tower of London area.

The corporation has at present no power to restrict the height of new buildings—and it is anxious to be granted this control.

The authorities point out that unless something is done immediately the view of St. Paul's from the south side of the Thames may be totally obscured. The dome is already partly hidden by a number of new buildings—Unilever House, the International Telephone Exchange and Vintny House at Southwark Bridge.

The L.C.C. plan for the country will restrict heights according to the width of the street and different roof levels will be allowed in different zones. The city corporation will probably adopt this system for the city.

As to "zoning" the new plan proposes to keep certain areas such as Lombard Street for banking and businesses connected with it and to prevent the intrusion of shops and offices of character—presumably in the hope of lessening traffic. Offices areas would be reserved for offices only and noisy workshops or factories would be banned in these zones.

The closing of alleyways and courts which abound in the city is recommended by the plan so that new streets could be cut and old ones widened. The inner and middle temples would be outside this part of the scheme as they come under the head of historical buildings, as do the city churches, which are to be preserved.

The plan is founded on the findings contained in a report of the city engineer, E. E. Finch, and Mr. G. Gerald Eve.

A NOBLE LORD'S CONFUSION

From the Financial Post, Toronto
Viscount Elibank is on his way to a meeting in New Zealand of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire. He has been making speeches in Canada.

Lord Elibank is chairman of the federation. As such his views will carry much weight with a great number of people. This is unfortunate for his public remarks here have been injudicious, to put it mildly.

His gratuitous advice on Canada's defence problems, given in his Toronto address, has already brought forth a mild rebuke from the Minister of National Defence. But it is Viscount Elibank's views on war and peace are no more soundly based than his views on trade and business, they are not worth the attention they have received.

In Toronto, Viscount Elibank urged Canadians to make more money for their own use in order that Scottish farmers might also benefit from the rise in prices. But not a word did the noble lord mention about the consumer and what he might say if Canada attempted to raise the price of oats above the market price fixed by a multitude of intangible forces. Nor did he recall how British millers ignored Canadian wheat offerings when this country tried with very little of raising prices without regard for other sources of supply.

It looks as though the automobile manufacturers of Canada will have to contend with keen German competition in South Africa. German manufacturers are undertaking an intensive campaign to enlarge their sales in all parts of the Union. Until last year, German exports were almost negligible, from $5,000 to $30,000. Last year, however, the value of sales increased to $115,700. It is understood that the Adler Company, the second largest organization in Germany, are forming a South African company, and that sales and services premises are in course of erection at Johannesburg. Branches are to be established in other strategic centres of the Union later, and in all probability an assembly plant will be erected. This movement on the part of Germany is a challenge to Canadian manufacturers, and United Kingdom manufacturers.

It is to be hoped that Viscount Elibank will give more mature consideration to the speeches he intends to make in New Zealand. Otherwise, he will find himself the centre of another tempest in that frank, outspoken country.

REDUCING THE RISK

From The Toronto Daily Star

There is at least one advantage now in being a "Mountie." A fall from a horse is no longer one of his occupational hazards.

VICTORIA'S CATHEDRAL BELLS

How soul-inspiring beautiful bells. How sweet to hear their welcome call.

A call from the Great Creator to worship.

A loving appeal to one and all.

The shades maybe of our old pioneers. Whose earthly remains adjacent lie. Will hear those peaceful chiming vibrations.

From a joyous clang to a sweet lullaby.

Then chime again, chime again, beautiful bells.

That bid us be free from discord and strife.

And when those bells have ceased to chime.

May echo answer—all through life.

Letters To the Editor

BONUS FOR CANADIAN VETERANS

To the Editor:—I may tell Mr. Charles G. Wilson, veteran of the Canadian Corps in France, who wrote from San Francisco to The Times on Wednesday that veterans in Canada are beginning to think that it is time they received a bonus from the Canadian Government similar to the bonus just paid American veterans by the United States Government.

Such a bonus in Canada would stimulate business here as it has during the last few months in United States.

For further information about the drive for a pension in Canada, Mr. Wilson should write J. A. Paton, general secretary, Canadian Corps Association, Main Floor, Rogers Building, Vancouver, B.C.

RED CHEVRO

THANKS FROM A DARING PERFORMER

To the Editor:—Would you please publish the following letter conveying my thanks to the following firms and individuals who so kindly assisted me in my escape act last Saturday afternoon in front of The Time Building.

I wish to thank Melrose Co. Ltd. for the loan of rope and Lemon & Gossage Ltd. for the timber. Also Mr. Joe North and Mr. Hans Kruger, many thanks.

I wish to apologize to the public for not being able to use the fourth story of The Times building for my escape act as promised. Owing to the editorial staff being so busy at that time or the day it was found to be impossible to work from that floor. I was then forced to use the second story, which I feel did not give the same daring effect.

FRANK MERRYFIELD, Princess Avenue.

CANNOT UNDERSTAND

To the Editor:—After taking several days to try to swallow some of the statements in Mr. Hans Kroeger's letter in one of your recent issues, may I ask that worthy proletarian propagandist a few questions relating to that promised land which he pictures in such glowing phraseology?

Being simply a Canadian, I perhaps could not be expected to understand why the Soviet brand of Paradise must be belittled with death sentences, hauled with spies and paid stool-pigeons, surrounded with electrified wire, police dogs and loyal comrades armed with sub-machine guns, stationed at intervals along the border, ready to murder "mad Russian dogs," wreckers, etc.

Also afflicted with a more middle-class mentality, I am unable to understand why (after fifteen years of wonderful Soviet education) the death penalty should be inflicted on citizens fourteen years old and older (law of spring, 1935).

Perhaps Mr. Kroeger could explain to your readers why theft of state or collective property should be punished by death (law of August 7, 1935)—a penalty discarded decades ago in the nations of the civilized west—and why on one day's unexcused absence from work, exposure of the worker to dismissal and loss of living quarters? Also, why does each train wreck, etc., have to be followed by the shooting of railway officials and workers, accused usually of negligence? P. HARTNELL, 1124 May Street.

SPANISH A LA NIGHT SCHOOL

To the Editor:—Last year there was much weeping and wailing in high places because Victorians had failed to display any enthusiasm in the forming of classes in Spanish at the local evening schools.

Well, Mr. Editor, when "fellows and gals" decide they wish to warble in some "lingo" other than their mother tongue, the first thing they consider is how long will it take? How long will it be before they can go around muttering mysterious sounding, furin' phrases in their ears, to the awe and admiration of their fellow men? And there you have it in a nutshell.

The present system of teaching French and Spanish in Victoria evening schools is slow and prolonged. One night a week for about five months completes the elementary class. Then the student has about seven months to wait for the advanced class to start in the next season, during which time his interest will naturally flag.

Why not take a tip from the Vancouver evening schools? On the mainland classes are held twice weekly, the elementary class terminating in the first half of the session and the advanced class by the end of the full session. Thus the interest is stimulated by the closer attendance and early mastery of the language. An appropriate fee could be charged for each half session. If the board of school trustees make some arrangements like this, Mr. Editor, I might even learn Spanish myself. Yes, sir!

"KING TUT."

NEES OUR FLIGHT TRAGIC

To the Editor:—Is it possible our civic officials have been indulging in the pastime of crystal ball gazing. This seems probable in view of the fact that the financing of municipalities is a new one, however. If our plight were not so seriously tragic, this fantastic scheme could be overlooked.

Letters to the editor by indignant ratepayers, who have some rights, together with well-balanced editorials, showing sincere interest in the city's welfare, all depicting the same viewpoint but much too conservative, seeing we are facing an emergency which calls for clear thinking and out-and-out above-board practical action. Is good, but something more effective than letters to the editor is necessary in Victoria.

"Too many cooks spoil the broth." It is general knowledge how London looks upon any highbrow lecture in the magic class of the overseas financiers. Hence it is clear what the effect will be when three or four such much needs press themselves into an otherwise one-man job and depend on the world's money markets. Surely, this matter can be as easily settled in Victoria through the usual channels—though, perhaps, not to our liking—as if officials spend another $30,000 to $40,000 of the ratepayers' money. It is obvious the present financial tangle is too much for most of our city officials. We are more cognizant of this lamented fact than the ratepayers in general, who have pretty well lost confidence in our civic government. The less advertising to the world of our financial plight the better. If every unnecessary expense were cut to the bone, the ratepayers—good sports as they are—could then take their loss with better grace. ALICE MCGREGOR, 1180 Camrose Crescent.

"TOLD IN THE PYRAMIDS"

To the Editor:—The air waves of Victoria are agitated daily, and sometimes nightly, by prophetic utterances which link the measurements of the Great Pyramid with the British Empire and with world events which are disturbing humanity today.

These broadcasts are presumably founded on Bible prophecy, plus the findings of Professor Piazzi Smyth, who visited and measured the Great Pyramid some sixty years ago, and who, it must be remembered, was an astronomer and not an engineer.

Following in the professor's footsteps came Mr. F. Petrie, whose more careful and accurate measurements differed somewhat from those of his predecessor. Since those days instruments have been more finely perfected, and others interested in the history of the Pyramid have continued the work.

The most recent of these, Mr. W. Kingsland, M.I.E.E., visited the Great Pyramid in 1931, and after months of careful investigation, exposed previous inaccuracies of measurement, leaving the prophetic "biblical pyramidists" without a leg to stand on.

Like the riddle of the Sphinx, the problem of the Pyramid remains unsolved. In one of its many aspects it may be regarded as astronomical—in others, numerical and geometrical. It may also be regarded as having been a temple of initiation into the esoteric mysteries of the universal Wisdom Religion of ages past. In yet another aspect it is a monument in stone to the history of the whole human race, black, white, red and yellow. What it most emphatically is not, is a monument peculiar to one generation or one tiny section of the human family, utterly unknown and unthought of at the time of its construction.

By the way, the King's Chamber is not the perfect cube that it is sometimes represented to be, but is built slightly askew. I mention this fact that those British Israelites who are looking forward to the realization of their hopes and aspirations as symbolized in the perfection of the King's Chamber, may not be too bitterly disappointed.

MORONS AND THEIR MACHINERY

To the Editor:—May we, as the Youth Forum would say, be permitted "right or wrong" to comment on your editorial of August 29 on the statements of Max Planck?

To begin, it would seem logical to assume that any public utterance of the above-named individual must necessarily (under pain of extinction) be in favor of the policies of his boss—one, the enlightened world, has long since looked upon as a marionette. We would suggest, must talk not by the yard, if it favors reaction, or not talk at all—in plainer words, die.

"The history of a people is comprehensible on a causality basis only as regards the past," meekly states this poor tool of Hitler. "Its future on the contrary can never be understood in a purely scientific manner!" Are we to understand that propaganda and theological superstition are the only hope for humanity and that science has failed? This slave of reaction and repression winds up by saying: "The future blossoms only for that people which applies and activates its will."

In the editorial you say, in effect, that "the physicists have become antagonistic to determinism in favor of free will." May we suggest that because a single individual (who does not possess a free will) states that free will is dominant over determinism, does not make it so, and neither does it prove that the "physicists" think so—that is to say, physicists in general.

We have hitherto understood that "the strongest motive determines the will. The will, like everything else (including morons and their machinery), is conditioned by circumstances and factors, and does not arise from its own volition. We often delude ourselves by assuming that we have the "free will" to choose as to whether we shall do or shall not do this or that, and entirely forget that we must—we are compelled to do or not do. There is nothing between doing and not doing. What freedom we may possess is extremely circumscribed, and the more Hitler and Mussolini we choose, the more do we intensify our misery and further restrict our marvelous, so-called "free will." How, may we ask, does Planck propose to separate the inseparable?

"THE INVASION OF LONDON"

To the Editor:—As one of the large and increasing number of ratepayers in this city who have lost their homes and their lifetime's savings, largely through the crushing burden of taxation caused by the wanton orgies of extravagantly wild expenditures of our city fathers, may I be permitted to endorse your timely editorial protest and beg that you may continue to use your trenchant pen until this wild goose scheme of sending a delegation of four "begging friars" on an expedition to London has been ventilated more fully, and if possible even forcibly prevented, even if there should have to be an appeal to the courts.

How such men can lend themselves to such a scheme beggars belief. What possible good can result from such a hastily-conceived expedition? If it is necessary to send four men, then why not forty. If there is imperviousness in numbers, why not send "Mr. Dam and Mrs. Dam, and the whole Dam family?"

The whole scheme, Mr. Editor, is a pipe-dream, conceived in folly and shapen in ignorance. The absurd claim that ratepayers must not be consulted or even considered until the plan has been laid before the bond people is to make one laugh. How often has this same dope been handed out for similar purposes in the past. Make no mistake, the powers that be have already been advised of the projected invasion, and orders gone forth to "repel boarders."

You are doubtless familiar, Mr. Editor, with Rudyard Kipling's story concerning "The Village That Voted the Earth Was Flat." Those who have read this famous story will remember that the village in question became the laughing stock of the country. Excursions in big charabancs were conducted there periodically, and large crowds were attracted to the district headed by big drums and blaring bugles. It might be suggested to the Tourist Trade Development Association that similar excursions be arranged for Victoria. The "flat earthers" are surely in danger of losing

One of August's Pretty Brides

Makes Visit To World's Women

Mrs. Frank Howland, formerly Miss Muriel Amy Hall, who was married at the First United Church recently.

Mrs. Alfred Watt Here After Convention Of Country Women

The work of the Associated Country Women of the World, one of the largest women's organizations in the international sphere, is described by its president, Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., who reached Victoria yesterday from the association's triennial conference in Washington, D.C.

"So far as international movements are concerned, the Country Women of the World lead," said Mrs. Watt. She spoke of the organization's international creed, stressed at the Washington conference.

Friendship between nations was the theme of the meeting, at which all discussions relating to strained relations between nations and international troubles were barred.

FOUR ROUND WORLD
When Mrs. Watt left England in May to go to Washington, she took the first lap of a journey which will eventually take her around the world, a journey during which she will travel by almost every means of transport, by steamer, railway, coach, airplane, motor, even to bugles and on horseback.

There will be no sleigh rides because she is missing the winter season everywhere.

"She is thinking of it in terms of strawberries which she had in England in May, in Washington in June, in Collingwood, Ont., in July and which she expects to have everywhere she goes."

In British Columbia the second crop of strawberries is in now. When she gets to New Zealand in October it will be their spring. She will certainly have strawberries at Christmas in Australia. She thinks the prospects are good for getting next year's early berries in Ceylon and India. When she reaches the Mediterranean in February and from then on. The first strawberries of the season will be coming in when she gets back to England.

Mrs. Watt is going on a tour among the Country Women's Associations of the world and expects to see their work everywhere she goes. The last country women she will meet with before leaving Canada will be the British Columbia Women's Institutes.

Before she leaves San Francisco on September 15 for New Zealand she will see the home demonstration work in California and at the first port of call, Honolulu, she will meet the home demonstration agents there.

In the Fiji Islands she will meet some of the women's institute women who live at Suva. Mrs. Watt will make a three-months tour of New Zealand, speaking at all central points to the women's institutes. Lord Bledisloe, the late Governor of New Zealand, has given Mrs. Watt permission to give to his many friends in the islands where Lady Bledisloe is the former president.

GREETINGS ROUND WORLD
An interesting feature of Mrs. Watt's round-the-world tour will be the transmission of messages between the Country Women's Associations. The Ontario women's institutes are sending greetings to New Zealand. The Australian societies will make Mrs. Watt the bearer of gifts to the Ceylon women's institutes, the Lanka Samitis. From the Indian, Mrs. Samitis there will be good wishes sent to the French Cercles Des Femmes. While the famous Wino of Palestine will send their good-will greetings back to Canada.

Mrs. Watt is accompanied on her journey by Miss Betty Smart of Oshawa, who will speak on the activities and interests of Canadian girls including camping-out experiences.

This is no ordinary tourist journey which Mrs. Watt and Miss Smart are taking. It is a real pilgrimage of friendship made interesting by accounts of life in other lands given from one country to another. It is safe to say that no single journey of recent years has ever been undertaken with greater possibilities for making at least the rural populations of the world aware of each other's place in the countryside.

Daughters of St. George—Victoria
Lodge No. 83 Daughters of St. George held their regular business meeting in the S.O.E. Hall last night. In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. J. Nunn, took the chair. There was a large number of members present. Mrs. Mabel Harris, a member from Vancouver, was welcomed by the vice-president. Members were reminded of the bazaar to be held on November 18. Mrs. Nunn is the general convener. Cards will be played after the next meeting night. After the business session the members adjourned to the banquet hall, where supper was served. Silver baskets of flowers in pastel shades and silver accouters and red tapers were among the decorations. The supper was in honor of Miss P. Machin, who is to be married on Friday night. Mrs. Nunn, on behalf of the officers and members of the lodge, presented Miss Machin with a case of silver flatware and a bouquet of flowers, and wished her every happiness and success. The bride-to-be responded briefly. Those in charge of the supper table were Mesdames A. Gurney, A. Harris, A. Haut and J. Brien.

Complimenting Miss Florence Nunn
A popular bride-elect, Mrs. Ben Readings, Mrs. A. Nunn and Miss Glenys Jones were hostesses at a delightful school-chum shower at the home of Mrs. Readings, Marine Drive, Sidney, Tuesday evening. The bride-elect entered the room to the strains of the Bridal Chorus and was seated at a wishing-well in tones of mauve and yellow, which concealed the many gifts. Vocal solos were given by Miss Sybil Gush and Miss Helen Keyworth. An Hawaiian number by the Misses Dorothy, Phyllis and Marguerite Primeau gained much praise. Tea was then served by the hostesses.

Those present were: Miss Florence Nunn, Mrs. Gardiner, Miss Jean Gardner, Miss Vivian Reed, Miss Isadore McMullan, Miss Annie Boshier, Miss Edith Readings, Miss Sybil Gush, Miss Sylvia Gorton, Miss Elsie Cox, Miss Bessie Jackson, Miss Dorothy Primeau, Miss Mary Jackson, Miss Winnie Tapping, Miss Phyllis Primeau, Miss Winnie Thornley, Miss Bunny Readings, Miss Gladys Marshall, Miss Marguerite Primeau and Helen Keyworth.

Surgery As Treatment For Crime

Associated Press
Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Margaret Allman, Ohio's first woman prison chief, recommended medical or surgical treatment of prisoners today as a possible solution of the crime problem.

"I am convinced that correction of physical or mental defects is the answer to most criminal cases," she said.

"I believe many criminals violate the laws because of some unapparent ailment—failure of the ductless glands to function properly, pressure on nerves, or other conditions which weaken and finally tear away that which causes normal men and women to be law-abiding citizens."

French Judge For Drama Festival

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Col. H. C. Osborne, honorary director of the Dominion Drama Festival, returned from Europe tonight and said next year's adjudicator of the drama festival will be a judge of the French theatre, if present plans materialize.

"A judge of the French theatre for the coming festival will give new ideas and a new point of view," Col. Osborne stated. "Naturally, at this early date it is impossible for me to make any definite announcement as to the individual. I expect to make a definite announcement in the near future."

Col. Osborne also said he expected to be able to announce by the end of October who the regional adjudicators will be.

Missionary Tea Proves Success

Success, financially and socially, attended the Season's Tea held yesterday afternoon in the schoolroom of the Metropolitan United Church by the Women's Missionary Society when about 300 guests were present.

Miss Grace Baker, president of the society, and Mrs. E. F. Church, chairman, welcomed the visitors. Mrs. W. L. Smith, who was general convener of the affair, gave a few words of greeting and announced the programme numbers.

The room had been attractively decorated for the occasion, dahlias, sinars and gladioli predominating.

The tables were most artistically decorated, each one representing a season of the year, and the hostesses and their assistants had arranged every detail with the greatest care. At the spring table, Mrs. H. O. English was hostess. In the centre was a bed of moss, dotted with fern and blue violets, a gay Maypole and tiny doll dancers dressed in pastel shades adding a pretty touch of color. Green and yellow paper gloves in crystal candlesticks, Mrs. E. F. Church and Mrs. Albert Sullivan poured tea, and assisting in serving were Mrs. E. F. Cliff, Mrs. Gerald Murphy, Mrs. W. H. Muncey, Mrs. C. E. Ball and Miss Flora Brink.

At the summer table, Mrs. R. J. C. Smith was hostess, the decorations being pink and white carnations arranged in a beautiful silver basket. At either side were pink candles in silver holders. Mrs. G. D. Christie and Mrs. B. Hetherington poured tea, and assisting were Mrs. Arthur Lee, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. W. A. Scott, Mrs. A. Read, Mrs. Akhurst and Miss Hart.

The decoration of the winter table was novel and most effective. A miniature snow-covered mountain was displayed in the centre, on which were Polar bears and miniature evergreen trees, a realistic lake boasting of winter sports. Red candles and shaded red lights made this table unusually attractive. Mrs. A. H. Adams was the hostess and pouring tea were Mrs. S. G. Clemence and Mrs. O. A. Richardson, with Mrs. J. Hutson and Mrs. W. H. Ozard, Mrs. G. Willerton and Mrs. J. E. Hunsion as assistants.

Miss Barbara Dawson delighted the guests with two solos, "If Winter Comes" and "Green Pastures." Miss Evelyn Harper played two delightful piano solos, "Etude in D Flat" and "The Boatman" (Arensky). Little Sylvia Welsh and June Short, pupils of Miss Enid Cole, caused great amusement with their numbers. June Short giving "The Crinoline Wedding," "Passing By," "The Lantern" and "Blue Room," while Sylvia Welsh gave "The Boatman" and "Green Apples." While tea was being served, Miss Joyce Dickson played piano numbers.

Quintuplets Act Like Troupers

Best Day's Work Done by Tots in Picture

Canadian Press
Callander, Ont., Sept. 3.—The Dionne quintuplets are learning to act like real troupers and today, it was agreed by the cast of their new movie "reunion," was "the best day's work yet."

Excellent shots of the babies toddling in and out of their little Dutch playhouse were obtained with Rochelle Hudson, Dorothy Petersen and Jean Herscholt all in the scenes. The youngsters wore little blue suits with pink sweaters, and, just as the script called for them to do, they took off their blue sun bonnets and carried them to "Nurse Kennedy" (Dorothy Petersen).

Given a spell of good luck with the weather, the quint's latest film probably will be concluded in another ten days or two weeks.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

AFTER NINE MONTHS ON A BOTTLE IT NEVER IS EASY TO TRAIN CHILD TO USE OF CUP.

Mothers are, as a rule, slow to accept general advice even though it relates directly to the behavior about which they are concerned. Yet general advice is often applicable to specific cases, which are so many times not unique—the mother only thinks they are.

A case in point is a mother who writes: "I have read your articles on breaking a baby from the bottle habit but my nine-months-old boy presents a different problem. He is a splendid eater, drinks lots of milk but only by bottle, but takes water and orange juice by cup."

REFUSES CUP

"He has always had lactic acid milk and I think he dislikes the odor for as soon as the cup is presented he turns his face away. Since all our doctors here insist upon the good qualities of lactic acid milk, I am afraid to change though I imagine sweet milk would be more appealing to him."

"I will not have a strapping youngster with a bottle, but what shall I do? I've taken it away three days at a time, but it hasn't helped."

Whether the milk is sweet or sour, if the child has been used to it for nine months from a bottle, he'll act this way towards the cup. But sooner or later you have to break him of the habit. It will always be just as hard, or harder than it is now.

DON'T HESITATE

Don't be fearful of sweet milk. At this age the boy no longer needs the digestive crutch offered by the lactic acid. Boil the milk. Use it whole with whatever water or sugar you now use.

Determine that you aren't going to be "afraid," that he'll starve himself

Hope For Chicago Boy Sufferer

Suitable Subject For Transfusion Offers Blood

Associated Press
Chicago, Sept. 3.—The postman brought new hope to the "test tube" parents of Philip Levitt, seven-year-old sufferer of the often fatal viridans streptococcal infection, today.

A letter from Dr. Thomas Marks of Lexington, Ky., giving minute data on a patient of his, Maurice Oldham, thirteen, actually recovered from the malady, was "just what we were looking for," Mrs. Morris Levitt, the mother explained.

"The Oldham boy had the same thing exactly," said the thrilled parent, who with her husband, an insurance salesman, had been undergoing injections of a vaccine made from dead germs in hopes their systems would develop a serum to combat their son's infection.

"We are wiring for the boy to come here and we have been assured that he will."

Medical authorities have stated a transfusion of blood from a person recently recovered from the identical infection was probably the only way in which Philip could expect a chance to overcome the virulent type of streptococcal poisoning.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 2.—Maurice Oldham, who has been selected for a blood transfusion in an effort to save the life of Philip Levitt, seven-year-old Chicago boy suffering from viridans streptococcal, will leave here tomorrow for Chicago, his parents said today.

Catholic Women's League—The regular September meeting of the Victoria Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League was held last evening in the Bishop's House. Mrs. Blair Reid, the president, was in the chair and Rev. Father Albury conducted the evening prayers. Flowers and other tokens had been regularly sent to sick and bereaved members during the summer season, it was reported. The hospital visiting volunteers for September are Mrs. W. McManus and Mrs. Windau. An appeal was made by Miss Clay for assistance for the Indians at the "Fortman" reserve, and the diocese was to be asked to attend to these people. The garden party at Sooke for the mission which was assisted by the Catholic Women's League was reported as being a great success. The sale of dishes for a booth at the fair was planned and helpers will be under the command of Mrs. Blair Reid. The meeting expressed good wishes for Mrs. Ebbes-Canavan for her journey to New York. Full reports were read for the indoor fête held in June, the proceeds of which were to aid the funds of St. Louis College. Plans for affairs for the coming year were discussed and correspondence from the National Subdivision read.

BOOTS BARRON, eighteen and lovely, slopes with RUSSELL LUND, handsome swimming instructor, because her pride has been hurt by some petty social snub. RUSSELL goes to Miami, promising to send for her later. Boots gets a job in a department store. She is living in a tiny room in Greenwich Village when she is stricken with influenza.

DENIS PENWAY, young author, befriends her and later introduces her to some of his friends. Boots finds herself receiving the greatest air beautiful KAY CHILLINGFORD has toward Denis.

Just before her illness Boots received a telegram telling her RUSSELL had been killed in a motorboat accident. She goes back to the store to work, too proud to appeal to her parents. She sees EDWARD VAN SCRIVER, one of Denis's friends, frequently.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Spring days with a hint of warmth in the air; rainy days with ribbons of silver mist floating in from the river and fog horns blowing. Boots lived through them all. Edward went to Nassau on a late March cruise and she missed his voice on the telephone and his laugh and his admiring glance. It was lonely and her room was full of the restlessness of spring. It was thrillingly painful on one of those ill-fated evenings, with a quick, bitter rain drying on the pavement, to walk along the narrow streets, to see the narrow sidewalks, to see the curbside and a huckster with his wagon filled with plants for window boxes—pansies, pink geraniums, aperiens, and to be alone in the city in springtime. Boots discovered, in an experience at once sad and sweet.

She wanted someone to enjoy the lengthening days with her, someone to hum the music that every hurdy-gurdy Italian played on his wheezy barrel organ. The radios along the shabby streets rushed music, too. And she was young. She went along on dancing feet.

Once she went to the movies with tall, blond, serious-minded Hilda Apfel who had been a student nurse but hadn't been able to stand the rigors of training. Hilda was popular on the seventh floor of Lacy's, she was a quick, eager, pleasant woman. There was talk of her being made some sort of supervisor at Easter.

"I took to you right away. You're different," the wide-eyed Miss Apfel confided to Boots. "Sure, I like all the girls, but there's something about you. I could see you were used to better things."

She knew the whole story now. How Boots had eloped with RUSSELL; RUSSELL's death; she knew all about the tiny, cramped flat in Astoria, with Gloria cutting out daisy blue and red silks under the glare of the overhead fixtures. Boots had told her all her parents' anger, everything.

"You'll get over it. Things will come out all right," Hilda told Boots seriously across the cafeteria table. The vinegar crust, the omelette, the heavy glass pepper and salt cellars were between them on the gleaming white table. There were coarse, white-handled knives and forks. There were twisted paper napkins and heavy glasses of water and their plates, heaped with the simple, satisfying food. Baked beans. Brown bread. Waldorf salad.

"I know," Boots' eyes were far away. Strangely enough, it was not of RUSSELL she was thinking at the moment. He and all the events of the past summer seemed far away. Why, already it was May. Soon the awnings would go up at the club out in Larchmont. There would be fresh sand raked into the space beside the babies' pool. There would be young, bare, eager feet on the bleached boards of the raft.

"You were just a kid. You didn't know what it was all about," supplied Hilda gravely, consuming baked beans. "You were just all for a good time."

"I was just a beach club girl," Boots contributed, with flippancy. "I've come a long way since then."

"I'll say!"

"If it weren't for my mother I wouldn't care so much," the younger girl went on, gulping water hurriedly because of that treacherous lump in her throat. "I wish I could see her and be friends."

Hilda Apfel patted the hand that nervously beat a tattoo on the table top.

"Don't worry. You will."

"I'll come out of this," Boots said suddenly, fiercely. "I'll make something of myself; be somebody. Then I'll go home and show them."

Hilda gave her a shrewd glance. "How about the boy, Denis?"

"Thirtieth-fourth once or twice?" Boots colored. "Edward? Oh, he's just a friend. A nice boy."

"He's rich, isn't he?"

She shrugged. "Yes, I guess so."

"You guess! 'Course he is. I saw that car of his. There was a fellow came up to Hunter's Falls in the summer once with one like that. Minerva, isn't it?"

"I don't know honestly. I never noticed."

Hilda gave her a wondering glance. "You're a riot. Honestly you are. No wonder the men fall for you. You've got a—I don't care—a little girl way about you. That's what they like."

Boots flushed. "I haven't."

"Well, take it from me he's someone to hang on to," Hilda offered, buttering the last bit of brown bread and eating it with evident relish. "This man's town is a hard one for a girl alone. Sure, you can earn enough to keep going day to day. But what about getting sick? What about a winter coat? What about getting older and losing your looks and all?"

"I'd like to work up to be a buyer or something like Miss Madden or Mrs. O'Harrigan, but you can see for yourself they're both middle-aged. They've fought their way inch by inch over dead bodies, too, if the truth were known," finished Hilda with her heavy-lidded eyes. "No, somehow I've got a feeling you couldn't stand the gasp of the store. You ought to set out to marry again and marry right this time. That's your line. You're pretty and soft and you've got nice manners. You belong in some cozy little home with a maid to bring you breakfast in bed and maybe a couple of babies after a while."

"I'm working my way through this particular hard time," Boots told her. "I don't want anyone's help."

Yet afterward when she had left Hilda the conversation returned to her in its entirety. Hilda didn't understand, she told herself, with good-natured contempt. Like many other girls, Hilda believed Edward Van Selver was sent directly from heaven. Not that Edward had ever said anything definite to Boots about marriage. But there was something in his attitude that indicated his thoughts might be directed into those channels.

No, she was finished with marriage, finished with men, except as playmates. She was going to fight her way to the top in the business world. Miss people respect her for her attainments. Let Kay Chillingford with her soft, superior, throaty voice angle for the attention of every man present.

Her heart began to beat thickly, painfully whenever she thought of Kay.

"She has everything," Boots thought rebelliously.

Yet there was a certain hardness, too, under Kay's air of complete femininity. Kay had made a success in the world of affairs, too. Kay had a fat salary check, had her own modern apartment (Edward had said) over in Beekman Place. All angles, Edward had said, and chairs made of cork and silver tubing, with a deep purple ceiling scattered with silver stars.

Once only recently Boots had had a glimpse of Kay in the store. Kay, in a charming spring frock of dark blue with touches of scarlet, had been wandering about with one of the buyers, Miss Bevan, touching fabrics, making notations. Miss Bevan had been openly subservient. From a distance Boots had watched the young Englishwoman, had heard her delicious, low-toned laugh.

She had not been able to explain the deep-seated resentment she had felt for Kay Chillingford.

"Anyhow she hasn't announced her engagement to Denis yet," Boots had said hotly, proudly. "Anyhow it isn't settled."

It was only Boots reminded herself, that Denis and she would no longer be friends, once Kay had married him. Kay would be—she could see—the violently jealous sort. And Boots did long to see Denis, just to talk to him—nothing more. She felt his handclasp, she longed, she longed, dark blue eyes crinkle up with sudden laughter.

Once she sat with the telephone receiver in her hand in Mrs. Mooney's stuffy little hallway, the number trembling on her lips. But she had put the receiver down again. She had realized it would never do. When she could pay Denis back, and not before then, she would telephone to him.

She was saving madly toward that end at the moment.

In the meantime she lived soberly, frugally, saving the pennies, washing out her stockings and underthings in the gray basin in the bathroom of Mrs. Mooney's flat, wading rather aimlessly to movies and museums on Sundays.

It was lonely, it was bleak. She was learning one hard lesson after another. Something hard and crystalline came to take the place of her girlish ease and softness. She no longer gumbled at hardships, but took the bitter with the sweet, with a certain philosophy older than her years. In the past she had been silly. She hadn't known how to make the best of things at home. If she had it all to do over again she would know better.

Sometimes deep in the night her pillow would be wet with tears. But in the morning she showed a smiling face to the world. She was brushed and tidy. The darts in her stockings were exquisitely neat. She wore her little, sheep-hat with an air. She had moments of feelings it was splendid to be a girl on her own, earning her living with the best of them.

And then quite suddenly summer shut down upon the world. A hot, breathless, brooding summer. That was another story.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1936

Benefic aspects rule in the horoscope of today, according to astrology. The morning is the time for pushing important matters of many sorts, especially construction on a large scale.

There is a sign indicating improved conditions for many classes of workers. Another hour should be intensive activity for forecast. Labor leaders, however, continue under a threatening aspect.

Many surgical operations are prognosticated for the coming months, when hospitals will require expanding facilities. Maladies affecting the digestive organs will be prevalent.

This is not an auspicious day for presenting letters of introduction or for seeking employment. It is not a time for starting anything.

For the young, much dancing and drinking are indicated during the coming months, when there will be wide discussion of modern social customs. A new reform movement is to become fashionable.

Young artists should rejoice over the message of the stars, which give assurance of great profit from government projects. But truth is to be sought along conservative lines.

Reactionary influences are to gain momentum at this time. They will affect great areas of the world. The field gains for old-line ideas will be definite, but not a time of testing and growth.

Children born on this day probably will be modest, thoughtful, industrious and belong to this age of Virgo.

George Page Quackenbush, educator, was born on this day 1926. Other famous people who have celebrated it as a birthday include Daniel Burnham, architect, 1846; Franklin Sumner, biologist and agriculturalist, 1857; Philip Carey, poet, 1861; Nikolai A. Abkhazov, Dnieper, 1741 (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

The subject of intoxicating drinks has been investigated in scientific laboratories, but the exact limit for alcoholic content of intoxicating beverages cannot be set, due to the wide variance in the manner that different persons are affected by alcohol.

A bust of Charles Darwin has been placed to his honor in the lonely Galapagos Islands, where the noted scientist began to work out his theory of evolution.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

The scientific physician no longer recognizes that there are such things as tonics.

In the old days tonics contained iron, quinine, strychnine, or arsenic, and a considerable amount of spiritus frumenti, or alcohol.

The alcohol gave somewhat of a "kick" which made a person feel better, and the drugs which stimulated the nervous system and increased the amount of Dr. M. Fishben's coloring matter in the blood.

For a long time it was thought that bitter drugs would stimulate the appetite. Nowadays we know that there is no tonic except good food, fresh air, and the development of abundant health.

An English physician, Sir William Broadbent, once said:

"A rhinoceros that dies hard in the idea that stimulants of whatever kind actually give strength, and are necessary for maintenance of health and vigor. Such is not the case, and the well-worn comparison that they are the whip and spur, and not the corn and grass, is strictly accurate."

"Anything accomplished under the influence of stimulants is done at the expense of blood and tissue, and, if frequently repeated, at the expense of the constitution."

A real tonic, therefore, is a substance which will build the tissue of the body, increase its reserve of energy, and make it better able to work. Certain reactions that may be provoked in the human body will cause the lungs to take in more oxygen and, in that way, give the body a higher reserve.

For example, a cold shower is stimulating, and a brisk rub associated with a cold shower aids the stimulation.

When muscles contract, they burn sugar. When muscles become fatigued, they develop lactic acid from sugar.

When oxygen is supplied to the

'SALADA' TEA

is delicious

A small amount of sunlight has a slightly stimulating or tonic quality, but over-exposure to the sun may have the opposite effect.

Remember, however, that it is not well to rely on tonics of any kind for preservation of health. Health is a positive factor which is maintained by avoiding disease, exhaustion, and unnecessary exposure to the elements.

Reviews Work Of Government

Norman W. Whittaker,
M.P.P., Tells of Benefits
From Liberal Legislation

Due to general improvement in conditions and also minimum wage legislation and the government's efforts in increasing foreign trade, the industrial payroll of British Columbia has been increased by $27,000,000 during the last two years, Norman W. Whittaker, M.P.P., told a meeting of the Ward Five Liberal Association yesterday evening.

Mr. Whittaker gave a general review of the provincial government's record since taking office. Except for relief and sinking fund requirements, the budget had been balanced and the government had paid off maturing indebtedness of $3,500,000.

In dealing with legislation which the government has enacted, Mr. Whittaker referred to the Apprenticeship Act, the work of the vocational bureau and the physical training and recreational classes which had been instituted for the unemployed. In these classes there was a membership of 2,500, he said.

Certain hospital grants had been increased and had been responsible for the placing of several of the smaller institutions on their feet, while special care had been taken in tuberculosis and mental work.

Mr. Whittaker also dealt with the government's efforts to secure better terms for British Columbia which had resulted in an increased annual grant from the Dominion Government of $750,000 and a promise to appoint a commission to investigate better terms for this province.

E. M. Whyte presided at the meeting.

Announcement that Alan Chambers had been appointed chairman of the National Employment Council on Youth was received with applause and a letter of congratulations was ordered forwarded to him. Best wishes were also extended to Mr. Chambers' forthcoming marriage.

Silent tribute was paid to the memory of the late W. H. Kinsman who passed away recently.

MAIL DRIVER TO PAY FINE

Magistrate Jay, in Final Provincial Police Case, Gives Ruling on Driving

Mail trucks enjoy no special prerogative which allows their drivers to proceed at a speed which makes them a danger on the road, Magistrate George Jay ruled in Provincial Police Court yesterday. His ruling was made in the case of R. M. Williams, who was fined $25 and $2.50 costs on conviction of driving dangerously on his route from Victoria to Nanaimo.

Roy Manser, representing Mr. Williams, announced he would consider an appeal.

Mr. Manser based his defence on the argument the mail carried enjoyed certain authority under the B.C. Act which overrode provincial regulations in connection with driving.

Mr. Williams said in evidence that he covered the distance from Victoria to Nanaimo in approximately two hours and forty minutes, inclusive of stops made en route.

Such driving, Sergeant Richard Harvey argued in presenting the case for prosecution, was beyond prudence and care.

Magistrate Jay agreed with Sergeant Harvey, noting that while dispatch was required in carrying mail, such driving might result in a serious collision which might send somebody to the hospital and "His Majesty's mail would go down the bank." He referred particularly to the dangerous sections of the Malahat covered on the route.

The Provincial Police honored retiring stipendiary magistrate, George Jay, on the completion of his final case in the provincial court yesterday with a presentation of an inscribed mantle clock.

The presentation took place in the office of Inspector Robert Owen, with officials and men present.

Col. J. H. McMullen, commissioner, made the presentation, expressing the force's regret over the retirement of Magistrate Jay. He paid tribute to the high esteem in which the retiring magistrate was held and voiced the force's good wishes to him in his leisure.

and men of the B.C. Provincial Police, Victoria, B.C. August, 1936.

In reply, Mr. Jay voiced his appreciation of the courtesy and efficiency of the Provincial Police and complimented Sgt. Richard Harvey in particular on his presentation of cases as prosecutor.

Col. McMullen welcomed the new magistrate, Henry C. Hall, who also paid tribute to his predecessor.

Cards That Look Like Sure Tricks Are Eliminated by Strip and End Strategy of Declarer

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

West had one of those hands which arouse hope of defeating the adverse contract as soon as the dummy goes down. He could see three apparent sure tricks and another that looked fairly certain, but in bridge you never can tell whether a "sure" trick in the hand will be there when the cards are played.

Today's hand was played at rubber bridge and when the declarer, South, surveyed his dummy he was not too confident of game. Lots of things could happen either way.

West was permitted to hold the opening lead, as he could make no shift that would be harmful to declarer's standpoint. West decided that a trump lead could do no harm, and so he shifted to hearts.

South took two rounds of trump, then led the diamond ace and ruffed SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS CONTRACT PROBLEM his last diamond in dummy. He then led a club from dummy and played the ten from his own hand. West winning with the king.

West returned a club; South won with the ace and ruffed his last club in dummy.

The stage was set for the final play, and now South did not care about the location of the missing spade honors. He led the ten of spades and, when East did not cover, permitted West to win.

West was helpless. A spade return would be to declarer's ace-jack; a club or diamond lead would permit a ruff in dummy, and discard of the jack of spades.

A hand that many players would lose because of lack of proper timing was made because South, by eliminating two suits from his combined hands, also eliminated the danger of defeat.

GIFT BRIGHTENS AGED MEN'S LIVES

Donations to assure a continuation of the pocket money given monthly to the non-pensioners in the Aged Men's Home are sought by J. H. Beatty and W. H. Davis who have for years helped to organize the distribution.

For nearly a year the money for the purpose has been made available from a fund that was raised as the result of a request made by Fred Landsberg before he died that instead of spending money on flowers for his funeral his friends should donate to the pocket money fund. This fund has now been used up and further subscriptions are required.

"The pocket money means a great deal to the aged men," says Mr. Davis. "Without it some of them would never have a nickel of their own and the little gift gives them a feeling of independence that goes a long way to brightening up the evening of their lives. I am sure donations would be readily forthcoming if citizens realized the pleasure the men get out of it."

Planets Influence Sunspots, Weather

Palo Alto, Cal.—If sunspots influence the course of weather on the earth (and presumably also on other planets) the planets in their turn influence the formation of sunspots, and thus indirectly their own weather events.

A statistical study of correlations between the positions of the three planets nearest the sun—Mercury, Venus, and earth—and the numbers and positions of sunspots has been made by Dr. Fernando Sanford of Palo Alto. Dr. Sanford has reported his results through the Smithsonian Institution, whose secretary, Dr. Charles G. Abbot, has been a leading investigator into the question of a possible connection between sunspots and weather.

An apparent hookup between planetary positions and sunspots was first noticed by an English astronomer, Mrs. A. S. D. Maunder, about thirty years ago. Mrs. Maunder noted the curious fact that sunspots apparently formed in larger numbers on the side of the sun opposite the earth than they did on the side we can see.

Dr. Sanford has extended this correlation study to include the two planets that are still nearer the sun and finds that they, too, seem to show the sunspots around the sun to the opposite side. When any two of the three planets are in line, the influence seems to be even more pronounced than it is for a single planet. Dr. Sanford suggests that electrical influences may hold the key to the puzzle. Sun, moon and earth are known to be negatively electrified. Presumably the other planets are electro-negative also. It is an axiom of electrical "storms" on the sun's surface, Dr. Sanford offers the hypothesis that the planetary charges act across intervening space to "push" these centres of solar electrical activity away.

Neutron Rays New Medical Hope

Rochester, N.Y.—Experiments on the effect of the new neutron rays of science to produce biological changes in living organisms have shown that they are much more efficient than X-rays. Dr. Raymond E. Zirkle, Johnson Foundation for Medical Physics at the University of Pennsylvania, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science here.

Ultimate hopes of the investigators, Dr. Zirkle revealed, is that the neutron rays will be more destructive to tumorous tissue than to normal body tissue and that medical science will thereby have a more potent radiation with which to attack cancer.

"The results to date," he declared, "do not yet justify the prediction of such an extremely fortunate outcome, but are nevertheless distinctly encouraging." Further details follow:

The neutron—one of the fundamental building blocks out of which atoms are built—was only discovered in 1932. Even yet the sources for creating neutron beams for biological study are so weak that only beams of low intensity can be used.

But the encouraging thing, Dr. Zirkle said, is that the activities of neutrons in ionizing tissue (which is the way all rays act on biological material) is always greater than X-rays for equal incident intensities. The relative effectiveness has been found to be from three to ten times in favor of the neutrons.

Moreover, and still more encouraging, the neutron X-ray ratio of effectiveness is not the same for all living tissue. "This is of tremendous importance," said Dr. Zirkle.

The reason, he added, is that scientists not only have found that their cancer research which will destroy all tissue more effectively than X-rays, but they want a radiation which will be more destructive to tumors than to normal tissue.

It is should prove that neutrons are ten times as destructive as X-rays to tumors and only three times as destructive to normal tissue, then the new neutron rays would be a tremendously more beneficial radiation to use in cancer research. This fortuitous situation cannot now be hailed with certainty, Dr. Zirkle indicated, but the results so far are encouraging.

Logging Railway Steepest In World

Ripple, Ore.—What is believed to be the world's steepest standard-gauge railroad is located near here. It is 3,421 feet in length, starting up on a 28 per cent grade, continuing on a 79 per cent and cutting down to 50 per cent as it nears the top of the incline.

The railroad brings logs from a 800,000,000-foot stand of timber lying on the high mountain ridges and delivers them at the foot of the canyon. The tip stand of Douglas fir and west coast hemlock to be cut is very valuable, covering a great space, so the matter of its removal is important, involving as it did the lowering of logs 1,500 to 2,500 feet down the narrow and precipitous side of the canyon of the Salmonberry River and getting them to the railroad at a convenient point.

Engineers decided that an ordinary railroad was out of the question. Owing to the nature of the country, about fifteen miles of mainland would have been required, the cost and construction of which would have been prohibitive. An incline was decided to be the most economical solution and site was chosen. This lay on the "nose" of a sharp ridge, allowing grading to be cut to a minimum and permitting easy removal of material.

The incline is a double-track counter-balanced one, lowering one loaded car at a time and at the same time bringing up an empty one. Cars used on both straight-away and inclines are those ordinarily used in northwest logging, weighing fourteen tons when empty. With twenty-eight ton loads of logs, their descending weight is forty-two tons. An average carload is 9,000 feet of timber, and under ordinary hauling conditions about 250,000 feet of timber could be hauled in a day.

The approximate cost of the grade was about $6,500, whereas a standard logging railroad built between the ends of the incline would necessitate an expense estimated at $25,000.

"Inclines are not the most desirable method of handling logs," says Mr. Bollons, the designing engineer, "but as the remaining stands of timber are in more or less isolated regions, requiring long and expensive railroads, these inclines are going to come into more general use in the future."

Ultra-short Waves Undergoing Check

Pasadena, Cal.—Shore-to-yacht broadcasts will be undertaken this year by the California Institute of Technology scientists to check formulas on a new theory regarding the nature of ultra-short radio waves.

The research, along with the theory, may prove of value to television which must employ short waves, about which very little scientific data are available.

Dr. P. S. Epstein, physicist who developed the theory, and Prof. Genady W. Potapenko, short-wave authority, have been awarded a Carnegie Foundation grant of $8,000 to conduct the summer experiments.

Essentially the men will study the propagation of short radio waves over the ocean.

While broadcasting one-meter waves from the Pacific Ocean seaboard, the scientists will study how the energy of the waves decreases with distance. Dr. Epstein's theory covers this phenomenon, and the main purpose of the research is to check the theory's formulas against actual events.

Of particular interest to the scientists is how the ultra-short waves are propagated beyond the horizon. Marconi, in land-to-sea experiments, showed that the waves curve in the air and extend beyond the horizon. Dr. Epstein's theory concerns this phenomenon, and presents the idea that the curving is caused by diffraction of electrical waves in space. The theory and experiments are expected to show what practicability exists for ultra-short waves.

Sort Molecules By Cellulose Sieve

St. Louis.—It is now possible for the chemist to sort out molecules, as a canning factory grades peas by passing them through sieves, by using cellulose as a molecular sieve.

How the "holes" in transparent cigarette wrapping materials can be varied in size to allow such sorting was described by Prof. James W. McColl and Dr. R. F. Stever of Stanford University here at the Thirteenth Colloid Symposium of the American Chemical Society here.

"The holes," said the scientists, "may be adjusted smaller and smaller so that it is possible to put a solution of sugar or of salt or milk passing them and get only pure water."

Application of the molecule sorting, it was indicated, is in finding out how far certain molecules in a solution exist independent of one another, or whether some are in chemical combination.

"In a solution of pectin, which is the basis of the preparations which the housewife uses for making jellies, it was found that the colloidal particles of pectin contain one-third of their weight of molecules of water," the scientists reported.

FORESEES NO WAR IN EAST

Prof. Frank R. Scott of McGill Here on Way Back From Pacific Conference

"I don't think we are going to see any war between Japan and Soviet Russia," said Dr. Frank R. Scott, professor of International Law at McGill University and widely read writer on social problems, who arrived here yesterday on his way home from attending the two weeks' sessions of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Yosemite.

The chief nations of the world with direct interests in the Pacific were all represented at the Yosemite convention, Dr. Scott said. There were twenty-six representatives from Canada, headed by Newton Wesley Rowell, K.C.; John W. Dufresne, and Raleigh Parkin, head of the foreign investments branch of the Sun Life of Canada. Mr. Parkin arrived here with Dr. Scott.

NOT RISKING WAR

"The Soviet is not going to risk war with Japan just to save Chinese territorial integrity," Dr. Scott said. "That is so long as Japan does not impinge on Soviet rights. Neither Japan nor Soviet Russia has anything to gain but everything to lose by war. On the other hand, Soviet Russia has had since 1931 a standing army of 280,000 troops in the Far East, since the Japanese went into Manchukuo. The Japanese realize that Soviet Russia from its position on the mainland could bomb Tokyo. The Japanese admitted this at the conference, and also that Japan could do no real damage to the Soviet."

Dr. Scott said it was apparent that further dismemberment of China by Japan was on the cards. That would keep Japan busy.

Speaking of the peace of Russia, Dr. Scott said that in Soviet Russia a new, great power had come into the Pacific.

FOLLOW OWN COURSE

"The Soviets now having a planned economy, it is possible for them to make their external policy go along the lines they want it to go," he continued.

"You know, the internal economy of each country is a prime factor in its foreign attitude. With the whole Soviet Union looking in on itself and attempting to build up a balanced economy it means the foreign trade of the Soviet Union is going to decline. This has been happening since 1931. Soviet Russia has not been dislocating foreign markets as Japan has. Thus Soviet Russia has not been conflicting in foreign policy in the Pacific.

Not needing markets or foreign trade, there has been no economic urge as under the Czars for expansion, or, for instance, to seek ice-free ports. Under the Czars there was heavy emigration from Russia because there were not enough goods to supply the people at home. Soviet Russia now has actually become a great status quo power."

Dr. Scott said Russia has resources in the Far East and Siberia and has been forcing industrial expansion there. The result has been an increasing military as well as industrial strength for her there. There has been the boundary disputes between her and Japan over Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia, but the indications at Yosemite were that this and other disputes could be settled satisfactorily without war.

COMMUNISM

As for communism, Dr. Scott said the Soviet attitude now was that communism is not an exportable commodity, that it takes root and grows only where the soil for it is fertile, and that any nation that does not look after its people is going to have communism.

The conclusions at Yosemite were that Soviet Russia is a stabilizing factor in the Far East, where there is no longer any system of regional security, and where even Britain is no longer able to preserve peace," Dr. Scott went on. "There is no balance

New Set-up In Senior Rugby League For Coming Season

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

SHADES OF LONG George Kelly, Artie Neff, of the Meusel brothers, Irish and Bob, of old John McGraw and scrappy Miller Huggins, are being revived in the baseball-mad districts of New York, these afternoons as the Manhattan two-some of Bill Terry's Giants and Joe McCarthy's Yankees sweep down their respective stretches towards the first nickel world series since 1923.

For the Yankees, their first American League pennant since 1922, is now a cinch proposition. The Giants, as usual, have their work cut out for them, and it will be a battle to the finish in the National circuit with the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals before the winner is decided.

Tomorrow the Giants are scheduled to wind up their western tour against the Cardinals. They return home to clash with the western club at the Polo Grounds. They will wind up the season against their weaker eastern brethren, while the Cubs and Cards will go home to fight it out between themselves. The popular feeling is that the men of Terry are at last on their way toward their first pennant since 1923. The last city series between any other major league clubs was way back in 1906, when two Chicago nines battled it out with the White Sox, victorious four games to two.

In 1934 and 1935 the Giants were up there all the way, only to fall like a toy soldier in the home stretch. Last year the Cubs, with their sensational twenty-one game winning streak, knocked their chance apart. This seems to be a different year, however, and it is the New Yorkers who are turning on the victory heat.

Besides the financial gain of a nickel world series in New York, the sentimental value of such a battle would add interest and prestige to the fall baseball classic. Back in 1921, 1922 and 1923, when the Yanks and Giants last hooked up in a world series, such men as the immortal Babe Ruth, Wally Pipp, Jimmy Duggan, Benji Hunter, Bucky Walters, and others were out on the field fighting for the spoils.

There is much speculation as to whether or not Fred Perry, English tennis star, will turn professional following the current United States championships at Forest Hills. There are several firms in America who would like to have the name "Fred J. Perry" engraved on their racquets. If he could get $50,000 in two years for that name alone, it is not too much, more than that going around the country with the pro circus, the Perry bank roll would soon swell.

Talking about Perry and the Perry name on tennis racquets brings to mind the very interesting subject of how the sport-loving fraternity do love to possess autographed articles of sport. Perhaps the autograph craze that has hit the world generally may have something to do with it. But no matter what it is, hundreds of prominent athletes have created themselves tidy incomes for the simple expedient of permitting the use of their names. "Babe" Ruth made thousands on baseball bats bearing his name. The same thing goes in hockey, with prominent stars getting their bit for carrying their names on hockey sticks. George Lott, one of the lesser lights of the pro tennis family, is said to have made more last year from the racquets bearing his name than he did for almost six months of continuous tennis action, with the troupe of O'Brien and Sonia Henje is said to be getting $100,000 for her first moving picture appearance.

Champion Fifth Brigade Are Not Entering Squad

Team Breaks Up When Coach C. Morton Retires; Garrison May Drop Out

BAYS OPERATE ON OWN AGAIN

Several smart rugby players were on the market today—relics of the Fifth Brigade team, city and island champions last year. According to officers of the regiment the outfit has definitely decided to make no senior entry in the league for the coming season. The ivory that Charlie Morton assembled and polished should be going cheap.

The regiment will, however, field an intermediate squad, if present plans are carried through. The Gunners, who would have been without a number of their star players under any circumstances, disintegrated when Morton announced his perennial retirement statement last year was definite this season. He will not coach a club team—at least he had maintained his decision, not to officiate in that capacity today.

Colonel "Ronnie" Kingham, who speaks for the Canadian Scottish, said last week the Highlanders would most likely field a squad.

"I guess they'll have a senior team. They've been in the league so long, it would be a pity to drop out now," he remarked.

Cosiderable success when they teamed up with the Oak Bay Wanderers, has indicated the J.B.A.A. will field an independent squad again. Officials of the Oak Bay Wanderers have announced similar intentions.

The Navy, annually one of the teams to be figured in the runnings, will probably retain its affiliation with the senior league.

PLAYERS AVAILABLE

With the breaking up of the Fifth Brigade seniors, such players as Wally Stipe, Dan Dowell, Frank Johnson, Bob Engelson, Harry Eastham, Bert Simpson, Bob Blair, Ed de Blaquiere and others will be on the block. It is understood several of them have made arrangements to switch to the dark blue uniforms of the Bays, but their actual destinations were not known today.

However, they will have plenty of time to make up their minds regarding new affiliations, with a month and a half between the present and the opening of the rugby season play.

Ball Titles At Stake Saturday

The British Columbia senior A softball championship will be at stake Saturday afternoon when the Hillcrest Lumber Company, island titleholders, face an invading Vancouver nine in a double-header programme at Duncan. The opening tussle will start at 2 o'clock and the second three hours later. It will be a best-of-three series and if a third game is necessary it will take place on the mainland on Labor Day.

GRID BATTLE ENDS IN TIE

Detroit Lions Come From Behind to Deadlock Collegiate All-stars 7 to 7

Chicago, Sept. 3.—The prestige of professional football, defended by the National League champion Detroit Lions, was still intact today—but badly bent by an inspired band of former college stars.

Yesterday evening before a throng of 76,361 thrilled spectators in Soldier Field, the Lions, led by their ace, Earl (Dutch) Clark, had staged a desperate last-period drive to earn a 7 to 7 tie with the all-stars of 1936—who, as seniors, helped make 1935 college gridiron history.

A break, a heart-breaking fumble by one of the heroes of the all-star drive, Alphonse (Tuffy) Leemans, George Washington University, early in the final session, gave the Lions an opening, and with Clark setting the tempo, the tying score was not long in coming.

Leemans, a rugged, tireless back, fumbled on the all-star twenty-nine yard line after making a great return of one of Bill Shepherd's kicks. Tom Hupke, one-time star guard at the University of Alabama, recovered and the professionals were off. Ernie Caddell ripped through the collegian line for twelve yards, and in three more plays Clark smashed to the eight. Then, as the youngsters concentrated on him, Clark faked a shot at the line, whirled and handed the ball to Caddell, who darted wide around his own left end and over the goal line.

Clark drop-kicked this extra point. The all stars started the first serious drive early in the second period, with Vernal (Babe) Le Voe of Minnesota and Leemans collaborating in taking the ball to the four-yard line where it was lost on downs. Frank Christensen kicked out to the Lions' thirty-nine. Leemans passed to Frank (Butch) Leach, Purdue, for twenty yards, and on the next play, Le Voe took the ball from a Minnesota teammate, Sheldon Belse, on a reverse and hustled the last seventeen yards over the goal line. Wally Fromhart, Notre Dame, placed the kick for the extra point.

JACOBS HAS FINE RECORD

Making Great Bid as Leading Horse Trainer in U.S. For Fourth Year

New York, Sept. 3.—Hirsch Jacobs, thirty-two-year-old former pigeon fancier from Brooklyn, is well on his way to become the leading thoroughbred trainer of the United States for the fourth successive year and top a record that has stood since 1923, but he never bets on horses.

The quiet and affable red-head is young as trainers go, but he has sent 119 winners to the post since January 1. This American record is 147 set by C. B. Irwin, thirteen years ago.

Jacobs already holds one mark in that he is the first trainer to win more than 100 races four years in a row. Around the track he is known as the "miracle man." His stable includes no Discovery or Granville.

In contrast it is made up of horses of cheaper variety, many of which Jacobs claimed.

He has charge of about fifty runners, of which twenty are temperamental out of training. Most of them race in the name of his wife, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, while others are the property of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Runyon, W. N. Adams and his brother, Dr. Irving Jacobs.

Jacobs has a knack of making horses win where they have failed for others. Time and again he has taken a cripple and turned him into a consistent performer. Yet he claims he has no secrets.

Canzoneri Choice For Bout Tonight

Lightweight Champion Rules Favorite Over Lou Ambers For Fifteen-round Title Scrap at New York; Crowd of 20,000 Expected

New York, Sept. 3.—Two of the scrappiest little boys in the sport come to blows in Madison Square Garden tonight when Tony Canzoneri, the former newsboy from New Orleans, risks his lightweight boxing crown against a former sparring partner, Lou Ambers, Herkimer, N.Y.

The fight, coming after being twice postponed, is scheduled for fifteen rounds or less. Canzoneri, one of the greatest fighters of all time, insists it will be less. Ambers is of the opinion it will go the route, but he will outpoint the popular little Italian.

But regardless of what the fighters think, Canzoneri will go into the ring favored to retain the title he won a year ago in a bout with Ambers after Barney Ross had vacated the 135-pound spot. Jimmy Johnston, Garden promoter, predicts 20,000 fans, paying upward of $80,000, will pack the air-cooled Eighth Avenue Arena for the opening of the indoor season.

Fans revived the argument the veteran Canzoneri, approaching twenty-eight years, can't go on forever and the time has come for him to give way to youth. Ambers is five years younger than the champ and admittedly is a better scrapper than he was a year ago.

In addition to the lightweight affair, another fifteen-round championship bout is on the card, featuring Mike Bellotte, New York, recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as featherweight king, risking his crown against Dave Crowley, the English champion.

Bellotte and Crowley fought a spirited ten-round non-title draw last May.

Victoria Member of Canada's Basketball Team Had Great Time at Berlin; Praises Play of Doug Peden in Series; Brother Art Will Return Later

"It was a great trip and a grand experience but I am glad to be back home." Those were the words of Chuck Chapman, Victoria basketball star and member of the Canadian team at the Olympic Games at Berlin, who returned to the city this morning from his European trip.

The Canadian team finished runner-up in the Olympic series, being defeated by the United States, 19 to 4, in the final.

Art Chapman will not be back home until the end of the week. Chuck and Art left Montreal in company with Murray (Muzz) Patrick and Dick Surphill, another Victoria boy, by automobile. After driving as far as Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Patrick's car broke down, so Chuck left the party and continued on to Seattle by bus.

Handicap too big. Questioned about the final game against the Americans, Chuck stated that the Canadians were unable to cope with the advantage the United States players had in height. The game was played in a heavy rain and the United States team adopted a type of game that gave their big men a big edge.

With the footing treacherous the smaller Canadians were unable to use their speed and ball handling ability to break through the zone defense of their opponents, Chapman said.

The European teams, although they did not play nearly as scientific basketball as the Americans and Canadians, were in wonderful condition and roughed matters up considerably, Chuck stated. In his opinion the European club derived much benefit from the series and their basketball would improve greatly as a result.

Chapman rated the Japanese, Chinese and Philippine teams next to the Americans and Canadians. Chuck had great praise for the performance of Doug Peden, third Victoria player on the Canadian team. "If it had not been for Doug, Canada would never have reached the final," Chapman said.

In the game against Latvia, we were nine points down with nine minutes to go when Peden entered the game. He sprang-plugged the squad on a twenty-point scoring spree and we won by eleven points.

ART IN ALL GAMES. Chuck played in four out of the seven games. His brother Art was in all seven and played the entire forty minutes each time. Peden saw action in four and a half games.

Questioned as to why Tony Osborne, Vancouver, fourth B.C. player on the team, was not used during the series, Chuck stated that the Windsor officials who were in charge of the squad, just could not see Osborne fitting into the line-up and he was left on the bench. "Took" Moravsky, star forward of the Windsor team, Canadian champion, was another who failed to show up well in the series, Chapman said.

CARDS ANNEX CITY CROWN

Defeat Suburban Squad 8 to 3 to Retain Women's Softball Championship

The women's city softball championship was retained by Jack Taylor's Cardinals, yesterday evening, when they emerged victorious in the third and final game of the series over the North Saanich Service Club, 8 to 3, at Victoria West Park.

One run in the first, two in the third and a quintette of markers in the fourth, made up the card's total. The suburban girls marked up one run in each of the first three frames.

Painter's Bruins, recently-crowned island softball champions, advanced into the final of the Foodie Box Café Cup series, when they defeated Togo Cleaners, 8 to 2 in a semi-final fixture at Bullen Park.

Bruins opened with a strong offensive and sent a trio of runners the distance in the first frame. They added another pair in the fourth and ended their scoring in the six-inning tussle in the fifth with three markers. Brown's home run in the final inning, with one man on, gave Togo Cleaners their pair of runs.

The Bruins will engage Silent Glows at 8 o'clock this evening at Victoria West Park in the semi-final of the Calvert Cup series. McLure and O'Connor will umpire. Brunson's Boys will face Togo Cleaners at Bullen Park tomorrow night, in the same competition. Piek and Waller will handle the fixture.

Sunday morning will bring to the Victoria Longshoremen and the Esquimalt Meat Market at Bullen Park at 10:30 o'clock, in the final of the Peden Cup series. Umpires will be McLure and Waller.

The first bout will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

The Big Six

Earl Averill, of Cleveland Indians, the big league batting leader, sped five full points on second-place Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, yesterday. He clouted three hits in five trips to the plate to raise his average two percentage points to .379, while Gehrig went hitless in four chances to fall to .378. In the National League trio of baseball's batting Big Six only Ducky Medwick, of the Cardinals, the pacesetter, saw action, and he dropped one percentage point to .369 by getting only one hit in four times up.

The standings (three leading hitters in each league) follow:

Team	Player	Points

St. Louis Cardinals Slice Lead Of New York Giants

Two Errors Give Cards Victory By Lone-run Margin

Mark Koenig, Replacing Injured Whitehead, Is Responsible For Defeat

CHICAGO CUBS BEAT BROOKLYN

Lady Luck has given Bill Terry the cold shoulder.

After making William her special boy friend for weeks, she turned her back on him yesterday for the first time since his astonishing New York Giants started their drive to the top of the National League heap, and just about handed the St. Louis Cardinals a 4 to 3 win over the New Yorkers, cutting their lead to three games.

For more than a month, the Giants have not run up against a single bad break. But in the opener of the important two-game series with the gashouse gang, the shoe was on the other foot. With the Giants out in front 3 to 2 in the seventh inning, second-sacker Burgess Whitehead collided with young Stu Martin and suffered a deep cut under his right eye.

Terry had to call on the erratic fielder Mark Koenig for replacement. The first two fielding chances Koenig had, he booted. And the Cards cashed in on the errors for the ball game. With the Chicago Cubs also winning yesterday—downing the Brooklyn Dodgers 4 to 0 behind Tex Carleton's seven-hit pitching—the red-hot race still remained a three-way fight down the stretch. The rest of the league was rained out.

HOME RUN WINS

The New York Yankees also had their league lead shaved somewhat, but not to any dangerous extent. Johnny Allen, the Yankees' center, came back with the Cleveland Indians and held the home team to three hits for ten innings, turning in a 4 to 3 win on the strength of Earl Averill's game-clinching homer in the extra frame. The defeat shortened the Yankees' pace-setting margin to sixteen games.

The St. Louis Browns turned on the heat to outslug the Philadelphia Athletics 13 to 11, and give Connie Mack's crew the American League cellar.

While the Chicago White Sox and Red Sox were rained out at Boston, the Detroit Tigers got some fine pitching from Jake Wade and Vic Sorrell, who, between them, held the Washington Senators to three hits for a 3 to 2 victory.

COAST LEAGUE

Portland, San Diego and Oakland fortified their positions in the Coast League pennant race yesterday by victories. While the Angels' season set back Los Angeles' chances of finishing in the first division this season.

The Beavers stayed a game and a half ahead of San Diego by blanking the Angels 4 to 0, while the Padres were pouring it on Sacramento 11 to 1.

Seattle dropped from a second-place tie with San Diego by losing to San Francisco 4 to 3, and the Oakland A's shook off a fourth place tie with the San Francisco Missions by winning a ten-inning encounter 3 to 2.

Many Victorians To Play Golf At Jasper

Fourteen Locals Will Take Part in Annual Totem Pole Tournament Next Week; Party of 100 From Pacific Coast Will Leave Vancouver Saturday

Vancouver, Sept. 3.—The Pacific Coast in general and Vancouver and Victoria in particular have gone for Jasper's eleventh annual Totem Pole tournament in a big way. So big in fact the Canadian National Railways will send the Coast saloons to the mountain rimmed links in a special train leaving Vancouver at 6.30 o'clock Saturday evening with close to 100 participants on board.

T. B. "Tommy" Randall, the Quilena Club executive, will lead the Coast contingent to the season's "friendliest tournament" since he holds the unbroken attendance record to date. It will be his sixth consecutive Jasper tournament.

Shaughnessy's Harry Butler looms as a serious threat to return the silver Totem trophy to the Coast and repeat the fine performance of the late Jack Mason two years ago. Plenty of competition will be provided by Ernest J. Ketchum, the four handicapper from Seattle, who is a master of the iron and also an old Jasper competitor.

Victoria has already entered fourteen players with the promise of more yet to come and it seems certain the Capital City will bring home some of the many trophies awarded during golf week at Jasper. Included in the Victoria players will be: Stan Haynes, Dr. J. W. Lennor, Dr. Thomas McPherson, J. W. Ruggie, Mrs. G. M. Cuppige, Cecil Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. McIlraith, Captain George Wilder, Mrs. Z. Huse, Commander Laurie, N. Staples, Roy Morris and W. Read. The course is in splendid shape. Week-end showers have literally yanked the grass through in a thick carpet and the eleventh annual golf week gives every promise of being the finest yet.

PERRY AND EZAR SET GOLF PACE

Princeton-on-Sea, England, Sept. 3.—Alf Perry, 1885 British open titleholder, and Joe Ezar, prize-winning artist from Texas, carded course record-breaking 69's yesterday to tie for the lead in the first of two qualifying rounds for the £1,250 News of the World professional golf tournament scheduled for September 15.

Brilliant Cleveland Rookie

Starting his first full game in the American League, seventeen-year-old Bob Feller, above, set the baseball world agog when he fanned fifteen St. Louis Browns to give the Cleveland Indians a 4 to 1 victory over the Hornsby crew. Feller's feat fell just one short of Babe Waddell's league record of sixteen strikeouts, set in 1908, and two of Dizzy Dean's major league mark of seventeen set against the Chicago Cubs in 1933. The youngster, handling from Valley Junction, Ia., is fresh from the Cleveland sandlots after a brief minor league experience.

Get Protection from Blow-outs and Skids with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns

Blow-out Witness: "Cheer up little girl... be a brave soldier. Nobody's hurt and your daddy will have the car fixed up as good as new."

Stop and think this over before you have a blow-out. Gambling on tires is one of the riskiest, most expensive chances a motorist can take, especially when thousands are killed or injured every year in accidents caused by blow-outs and skids.

It's a fact... today's speedy driving does generate terrific heat inside the tire. You can't see it—but unless this heat is resisted, rubber and fabric begin to separate. A baby blister forms. Bigger and BIGGER it grows. Sooner or later, and without warning—BANG! It's a blow-out! And you'll never forgive yourself if anything happens.

TOUGH? THIS AMAZING GOODRICH TUBE IS SO TOUGH THAT IT DOESN'T TEAR IF THE TIRE GOES FLAT.

The Goodrich Gold and Black tube is made of tougher black rubber to resist tearing and an extra layer of special golden rubber to protect against rim cuts. Tests show that even when run in a flat tire for a distance the Gold and Black construction was not torn or flattened, while tubes of ordinary construction were torn to shreds. Save time, trouble and money. Put Goodrich Gold and Black tubes in all your tires.

GOODRICH GOLD AND BLACK TUBES Wear Longer—Cost No More

Put yourself in this picture. Don't let a BLOW-OUT or SKID throw your car out of control.

New Goodrich invention may save your life. Someone had to build a safer tire that would stand up under modern driving conditions. So Goodrich engineers experimented and experimented, tested and tested. Finally they developed the greatest tire improvement in years—the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This amazing, specially constructed ply resists heat. It prevents separation of the tread and the fabric inside the tire. Treacherous heat blisters don't form. And when you prevent the blister you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

Protection against "tail-spin" skids. Silvertowns also give you the protection of the famous "road-drying" tread with its three big center ribs that act like the windshield wiper on your car. At the first sign of a skid they sweep away the water. This gives the big double outer rows of husky Silvertown tread a drier surface to grip, and you're protected against dangerous "tail-spin" skids.

No extra cost. Here's more good news! These Goodrich life-saving features are really free. You pay no price premium for the extra safety that is built into these big rugged tires because Goodrich Gold and Black Silvertowns cost not a penny more than other standard tires.

Don't let a blow-out add your name to the accident list. Get Goodrich—the safest tires money can buy. In the six lines of Goodrich Tires there's a price to meet every purse. See your Goodrich dealer today.

FILM COMPANY LISTED UNFAIR

Labor Council Takes Action on Wage Question; New Hall Sought

After investigating labor conditions under which workmen are employed in constructing sets for the production of motion pictures here, the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, as the result of action culminating at its meeting held yesterday evening, has placed Central Films Ltd. on the unfair list.

It is claimed by labor that non-union men, such as carpenters and other building workers, are employed by the movie company at wages lower than the union basic scale.

The ruling of the labor council does not affect electricians in the employ of the studio and no action will be taken by that union until further word is received from the Electrical Workers' Union at Hollywood.

Labor has no desire to interrupt the production of motion pictures here, it was pointed out by officials following the meeting, but they consider that rates of wages in Victoria should be on the same basis as those paid on similar work elsewhere.

The labor council authorized the forwarding of a letter to T. H. Eslick of the Vancouver Island Trade Development Association, protesting the printing in Vancouver of programmes for a recently advertised Show Boat performance here.

A letter will be sent to the Workmen's Compensation Board in connection with the attaching of guy wires to alleged unsafe leaning scaffolds in a Vancouver Island logging camp. It was stated some thirty-two men have been killed in logging accidents this year.

A letter was sent from the department of labor stating that the hiring of mainline labor on the Malahat Highway contract is against the terms of the agreement. The parties concerned will be notified of this.

Owing to increasing membership, the labor council will seek a larger hall in which to hold its meetings. A. Johnson, C. Chivers and F. Oliver were delegated to interview agents.

Rotary Enjoys Four Features

Violin Making, Logging, Refunding Plan and Club Ideals Are Heard

Rotarians at their luncheon today learned all about wood in its finest and its coarsest forms—the master violin and the logs as they leave the forest—and for good measure heard the city's refinancing scheme explained by its originator and the principles of Rotary outlined by a veteran of the club.

Justin Gilbert, court stenographer and master violin maker, one of the new men since Stradivarius and the Cremona school who have learned the secret of making a thirteen-ounce violin, told the audience members something of the science and the art which go into his hobby.

The science of classic violin making, he said, was in so perfecting all the details which made up a violin's tone that every ounce of inertia did more work than it otherwise could. Only in this way could a light violin—thirteen and a half ounces when strung, compared with the fifteen and a half ounces of the factory product—be endowed with all the qualities of tonal strength.

Mr. Gilbert listed the fourteen qualities which make up tone in a violin, and then went on to tell of the details with which the craftsman could produce and control them.

Among these factors were the quality of the wood, the inside dimensions, the bulk and inertia of the wood, the area of vibration, the arching of the panels, the size and position of the sound holes, the tone pitch of the plates, the relationship between the back and front plates, the seasoning of the wood, the foundation which stopped the wood, the varnish and the position and size of the sound post and the bridge.

It had taken him a lifetime of study and constant experiment to determine all these factors, not to be found in any book.

"The inspiration of the violin's voice is a woman's soprano voice, feminine, pure, sweet, and clear," he said, "and the virtuosos look on his violin as having a woman's temperament which he controls, so that he can make it do everything from crying to laughing and cursing to pleading."

LOGGING IN PICTURE

The stages through which lumber goes from the standing tree to the sawmill were graphically demonstrated in a moving picture shown to the club by Russell Plintoff.

Saying that in some cases Rotarians had theorized so much about the principals of Rotary that they had got away from their human realities, he listed its aims as friendship and fellowship, assistance in difficulties, opportunities to increase business and the interchange of ideas.

G. A. Yardley was introduced as a new member of the club.

Frank L. Doherty, president, was in the chair, and Pat Malone was in charge of the lengthy programme.

HENLEY PLAN IS EXPLAINED

Alderman P. R. Brown Points to Savings Scheme Will Make If Successful

Feeling a large number of Victoria property owners are not yet conversant with the particulars of the Henley refunding scheme adopted by the City Council, Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, today outlined detailed savings plan would secure for the city if successful.

His statement follows: "Under the present debt charges of the city for 1937, our interest obligation for the year 1937 amounts to $1,300,323.39. Under the new plan, the charges for 1937 would be reduced to $532,802.22, a saving of $767,521.17. In 1938 our charges will amount to $448,886.88, which would effect a saving in each of those years of $791,465.38. For the year 1940, until the maturity of the bonds, and taking care of sinking fund, the charges will be $750,705.97. The charges will be a saving each year until maturity of $689,136.41.

"In addition, the city will have paid off its demand loans at the bank, amounting to over $500,000. It will also have cash in the bank of approximately $700,000. After the bank has been paid off, that money will be used for special purposes, as set out in the debt adjustment plan submitted to the council on Monday last. In no one year can the council use more than $100,000 of this money for any of the purposes as set out in that schedule.

"The adoption of this proposal, the city will be absolutely solvent, and there should be no reason for increase in taxation. After the re-establishment of the city's credit, there should be every justification for a reduction in taxation, which would help to re-establish property values, and encourage building construction in the city.

"No split on scheme principle. Another matter that has been brought to my attention was the question of the small majority in the vote at last Monday's meeting. In this connection, I should like to point out that the refunding plan was adopted by all the members of the council present at the time of the vote, taken at the council meeting on Friday last, with no dissenting voice. At the adoption of the refunding plan, C. S. Henley was appointed fiscal agent for the city, for the reason that it was his plan that was adopted, and that it was through his agencies that this refunding programme was to be presented.

"The meeting that was held on Monday evening last was not for the purpose of considering the refunding plan, but was called for the one purpose of considering the fee to be paid to Mr. Henley and the number of delegates to go to London and other cities. It was on this motion that the division occurred, but the error on the part of Alderman O'Keil, who has since made a statement to the press, the result of the vote as to fee, and delegation, would have been seven to four. The finance committee would have appreciated a unanimous vote, and even asked for an alternative suggestion, but as no acceptable suggestion was offered, the vote had to be taken, and was recorded."

STINGING BEE NOT A CITIZEN
Mainland Man Complains of Unorthodox Treatment of His Wife.

Problems of the Minister of Agriculture are many, but something new in the way of a task is a solution to a man's troubles, who complains that his neighbor's bees "stung my wife one night and the fellow is not even a citizen of the country."

It appears the neighbor was complaining about a new neighbor who has moved in alongside his farm in the lower mainland and who keeps bees.

"They kill the bigger part of our blossoms and infest even the house. My wife got stung one night and the fellow is not even a citizen of the country," he says.

"Something has to be done. This is going altogether too far. Do I have to stand all this and let someone make a living out of my garden and orchard?" he asks.

In reply to this query the minister is not sure, but anyway he is considering sending the avian inspector around to see the complainant and see if an amicable settlement can be arranged.

Many Conventions Expected in 1937
Another heavy year for conventions is Victoria's prospect for 1937, according to W. H. Snell, Montreal, convention traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is here today on one of his periodic visits to the Empress Hotel.

The city's business men are now looking back over a summer season which sets records for the number of important organizations which held conferences and gatherings here.

Mr. Snell reports hotel business throughout Canada much improved this year, and is looking forward to an even better tourist season next year.

"SAN FRANCISCO" TO OPEN FRIDAY

A new and truly romantic team is brought to the screen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "San Francisco," which will open at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow, in Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald.

For the first time the rugged, two-fisted, jaw-socketing Gable of old and the lovely Miss MacDonald with the voice that thrills, are brought together, with Spencer Tracy sharing stellar honors.

"San Francisco" has drama, love interest, comedy and spectacle. Gable has the rough and tough type of role in which his screen public likes him best. Miss MacDonald has the ideal part to give her opportunity to sing, and when she sings there is a reason for her singing for her songs are a part of the plot.

Comedy-romance Here On Friday

They haven't got the coyotes singing "Hi-di-ho," but in almost every other way the Old West has gone swing in Bing Crosby's latest, "Rhythm on the Range," scheduled to open Friday at the Dominion Theatre, with Crosby, Frances Farmer and Bob Burns in central roles.

"Rhythm on the Range" makes a cowboy out of Burns, and opens its story when the crooner buys a prize bull at a rodeo in New York's Madison Square Garden, then starts west with the animal in a box car. In the reels that follow, a rollicking romance is punctuated by the bazooka-playing of Burns, swing music by Louis Prima's world-famed band, western songs, and the antics of Crosby, Burns, the bull, Miss Farmer and Martha Rave, new screen comedienne "find."

Specialties Gain In Mixed Trading On Wal St. Mart

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 3.—Specialties ticked off substantial advances in today's stock market while profit realizers took pot-shots at some of the recent leaders.

Business and industrial news was inspiring for the most part, but buying vigor was lacking in the majority of instances. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

The list exhibited a steady to firm tone at the opening with the steels, utilities and grains again in demand. Specialties soon came to the fore while other categories fell back trading was extremely slow throughout the greater part of the proceedings.

Crown Cork was an exceptionally strong spot, getting up around 4 points at its best in response to the belief of some that the concern will benefit extensively from its new aluminum and steel rolling mills.

Allis-Chalmers dropped more than a point when the directors lifted the dividend rate and announced the calling of $5,000,000 of the company's bonds. Cannon Mills gained about 3 on a dividend boost.

U.S. Government securities were active and strong. Other bonds were mixed. Foreign currencies were without any particular trend. Wheat at Chicago recovered 1 to 1½ cents a bushel and corn was up ¼ to ¾.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX-Why is it that there is so much excitement and such a parade made over the first child, while the second, third, and so on, are always accepted as a matter of course? Before my first child was born I had the spotlight turned on me by my family and husband and was the object of all their attentions and solicitations. But now that I am going to have another baby, it is just "one of those things" and nobody is much interested in it except me. I am not complaining. I am just wondering about it and cannot understand why there is such a difference in people's treatment of the mother when the child is so much harder to get, and it requires so much more courage to bear the second baby than it did the first. There is no ignorance to veil the cruel truth from her as with the first baby and she has much to think about other than the glorious illusion of motherhood. Can you solve this puzzle, something for me? I think it would make it easier for me if I understood it. A PUZZLED MOTHER.

Answer: I suppose the reason that the first baby rates the most attention, has the most fuss made over it and gets the most presents is because every first thing is in the nature of a miracle. It is something wonderful and to be marvelled over because it has never happened before.

The young mother is cherished with a peculiar tenderness by her family and friends, because the trailing glory of her first baby is about her, and because there is something so new and so brave in the thought of the young creature, hardly more than a child herself, going down into a hell of suffering to bring back another life, that it grips the hearts of all who know and love her.

But the feat once accomplished becomes a commonplace that calls for no beating on the drums. Drama does not bear repetition. The surprise and tenderness and excitement comes out of it at a second performance. Lindbergh was the first man to cross the ocean in a nonstop flight and the whole world acclaimed his daring. Now aviators come and go across the sea and we pay little attention to them. And it is the same way about children. The first baby is a miracle. The second one is an achievement. After that they are just a habit.

And, curiously enough, you will find that you will take exactly the same attitude yourself toward your children. No matter how many children you have, there will never be one like the first-born. No other child will ever seem such a marvel to you as your first. You will never get another such a thrill as you felt when your first baby's tiny fingers curled around yours. Most mothers, I think, love their youngest child better than they do any of the others, but their first child gave them a triumph and an excitement that none of the others ever brought to them as a birthday gift.

Fortunately, a mother's heart is big enough to take in all the babies that come, no matter how many they be, but she will never wait for the coming of another with just the same thoughts and dreams as she did while she sewed on little garments for the first one. Now with her prayers be the same, for she will not be praying for herself, but that her life may be spared for the little ones who need her and who would be so forlorn if they were motherless. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX-My wife and I have been married for five years and we are happy together but for this problem: I am a young doctor, I am settled in the city in which I was born and have spent my life and I have built up a practice that is good and getting better every day. The future looks bright for me here. My wife, however, feels that she can no longer bear to be away from her family and friends and she demands that I give up my practice and go to live in a distant city among her people. That means that I should have to start all over again, but should I do what she asks me to do? YOUNG DOCTOR.

Answer: I think you would be both weak and foolish to sacrifice your future to gratify your wife's whim. You would be weak to let her pull you around by the nose and make you do a thing that you know will jeopardize your entire career just because she wants to be near Mamma and the girls, and you would be foolish because your sacrifice would be made in vain. For when she found out that you were not making as much money in the new environment as you did in the old she would be just as disgruntled and unhappy over that as she is about having to live away from her old home now.

Women always want to have their cake and eat it, too. They want their husbands to go and live where they want to live, but they want them to make just as much money as they did before. And if they don't, they never admit that it is their fault. They just wonder why husband can't get along like other men. I've known many men who gave up good jobs and good prospects to go to live among their wives' people, but I have never known a single case where the husband's sacrifice was appreciated by his wife, or brought them any happiness.

In these days when it takes so long to get started in any profession and where success is so difficult to win, a man should think a long time before he threw up a certainty for a chance somewhere else. It is a wife's place to follow her husband and to adapt herself to whatever place in which he finds his opportunity, and a good wife and one who loves her husband does so. I wonder what our pioneer mothers would think of the wives who cannot stand the hardship of living a few miles away from their own families and friends.

DEAR MISS DIX-I am engaged to be married to a man whom I have deceived about my age. I am four years older than he is, but I have made him believe that I was only one year older, and now I feel that I ought to tell him my actual age. I am the small dark type and look young for my age. He is settled and looks old for his, and I believe the difference in age would make no difference in our happiness. How do you think a man feels about such a situation? Shall I tell or not? TWENTY-NINE.

Answer: If he is a reasonable man, I don't think he will give it a second thought, but, if you are ever going to tell him, do it before you marry. Nobody takes a woman's lying about her age seriously. We all do it. DOROTHY DIX.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SWING

By HOWARD R. GARRIS
"Help! Help! Help!"
A loud voice cried this in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day. Then the voice went on:
"Oh, he's got me! He's got me! Please let me go!"
Uncle Wiggily sat in his easy chair reading his paper and if nothing was happening and easy like. Once more the voice cried:
"Oh, will no one save me?" There was a loud bang.
"Oh, Mr. Longears!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fussy Wuzzy, rushing in the room. "Aren't you going to do something about that?"
"About what?" asked Mr. Longears. "About whoever is in trouble. Listen to that voice!"
Again it called: "Help! Help!"
"I forgot I left that going," he said. "It was only the adventures of a Police Dog being broadcast. Nurse Jane, a Cat-Lady gets into trouble and the Police Dog saves her. Jingle and Jangle were listening to it but I made them hop out. I don't like those very exciting programmes for me."
"Well, here they come back again," said Nurse Jane as footsteps sounded on the front porch. Into the room came running several rabbit children.
"WANT TO HEAR ADVENTURE?"
"We want to hear the adventures of the Police Dog," said Baby Bump.
"No, it isn't good for you," said Uncle Wiggily.
"But we want some fun," said Jangle. "I'll take you for a walk in the woods," promised Mr. Longears.
"Yes," answered her father, "I will. Hop along to the woods."
It was lovely in the woods beneath the shady trees. Even the little rabbits, who wanted to listen to the radio adventures of the Police Dog, liked it in the woods, especially with a swing. They did not stop long to see the ferns and flowers or smell the spicy breath of the eucalyptus trees. They were looking for a good tree for the swing.
"Here's one," said Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog who had tagged along. "It has a fine sticking-out straight branch on it for the rope."
"Ah, yes," said Uncle Wiggily. "But did any of you bring a rope?"
The animal children looked at one another sadly.
"We thought you would bring the rope," said Jingle.
"The swing is for you, so you should have brought the rope," said Uncle Wig-

Church Subsidies Now in Ethiopia

Associated Press
Addis Ababa, Sept. 2.-As an indication Ethiopians will in no way be called on to surrender their cherished religious beliefs, Viceroys Rodolfo Gragnani yesterday ordered monthly payments of subsidies to twenty-eight Coptic churches in Addis Ababa.
The "abuna" or bishop responded with a plea to 10,000,000 Ethiopians, most of them adherents of the Christian Coptic sect, to give up raids and brigandage against the Italians and accept their new rulers as "God-given."

Point Out 350 New Ships Need Of U.S.

Plans Being Laid For Great New American Merchant Marine; Direct Subsidies Will Be Paid

Associated Press

Washington, Sept. 3.—Contending that 350 new ships are needed to put the United States merchant marine on even terms with foreign vessels, Shipping Board Bureau officials reported today they are laying tentative groundwork for a large construction programme.

Preparing preliminary data for the new maritime commission, officials said they have found new merchant ships of all classes are needed. The new five-member commission, created under the ship subsidy law enacted by the last Congress after a bitter controversy, has not yet been appointed by President Roosevelt.

When it does begin functioning, officials said, foundation work for the new construction programme will have been accomplished.

Under the new law, the United States will pay direct subsidies to operators to build and run ships. This plan replaces a system of indirect subsidies given in the form of payments for carrying the mail on the seas.

The law provides for subsidies up to 50 per cent of construction costs, with twenty-year, 3½ per cent government loans for as much as 25 per cent more. It also provides subsidies for operating ships. The law contemplates that subsidies will be granted in direct ratio to the difference between foreign costs and those in the country.

The officials here are basing their plans on the contention that many vessels now in service are too old and are poorly suited to present day needs. In numerous cases, they declared, ships ranging from 6,000 to 9,000 tons should be replaced with vessels of 10,000 to 15,000 tons. The larger capacity of the new ships would be coupled with more efficient engine construction and hull design to pull down operating costs.

Ships now being assigned technical plans to work out standard designs for different classes of vessels. A tanker already had been designed and work is now underway on plans for a freighter.

Fishermen Have Excellent Year

New Westminster, Sept. 3.—The 1,500 gillnet fishermen operating on the Fraser River earned more than $7,000,000 in the unusual heavy sockeye run this season, according to semi-official estimates issued yesterday.

The estimates place the average earnings per boat at $700, although, it was said, a number of boats were known to have cleared $1,000. Three Japanese fishermen from Stevenson were said to have cleaned up $3,000 each in the heavy run.

Fishermen claim they believe there was some undersea disturbance which caused the sockeye to change their course and cause the unusual early run on the Fraser.

Marine Nearly Missed Apollo

Vancouver, Sept. 3.—Crowds of Vancouver people who went down to Pier A to say goodbye to H.M.S. Apollo on Tuesday evening saw an example of naval quick-thinking.

It was five minutes before 6 o'clock. The sailors and marines were at their stations and on the quarter-deck the Royal Marine Band was playing "Auld Lang Syne." The shore people were shouting cheerful farewells.

The navigator, high on the superstructure, gave the command to cast off and as the passing clock struck 6 o'clock the Apollo began to slide astern.

Suddenly down the ramp leading to the wharf came a Royal Marine on the gallop. He was in grave danger of missing his ship. The officer on the bridge spotted him.

"Get that marine through," he shouted to the crowd. The people opened up a pathway and the puffing and panting seaman hove into sight.

"Swing out the crane," shouted the officer. The crane, which is used for hoisting seaplanes outboard and inbound swung out to port with a chain dangling.

"Grab that chain," yelled the officer. The distressed marine grabbed the chain and was speedily hoisted aboard as the cruiser backed out and the crowd cheered.

No doubt the marine faced the "old man" yesterday morning, as the Apollo steamed towards San Francisco and told him why he was so late in arriving back on shipboard.
